CHICAGO (AP) — Winter's cold and spring's violence delivered a multimillion-dollar one-two punch to many of the nation's fruit crops this year, an Associated Press survey indicates.

Heavy damage from California to New England was reported. Only the Southeast escaped major losses.

$10-Million Loss

Preliminary estimates placed fruit crop losses at more than $10 million, conservation and state officials said.

Hardest hit was the lush apple and peach country of the Northwest where subzero December cold and spring frost all but wiped out the production of many orchards.

The weather's victims included peaches, apricots, cherries, apples, pears and strawberries.

Washington State officials said pear and cherry crops had been heavily damaged and the apricot and peach crops ruined.

The strawberry crop in the western half of the state was expected to be 50 per cent below last year's yield.

Oregon reported extensive damage to strawberries and cherries in the Hood River, the Dalles, Freewater and La Grande areas.

Last Week's Damage

Utah, where one county has suffered an estimated total of $1 million in fruit loss, has asked President Johnson to declare five counties disaster areas.

Most of the damage to peach, apricot, cherry, apple and pear crops came during a cold snap last week.

Blame Winter

In the Midwest, tornadoes and floods have raged since March, but crop experts blamed the long winter for most damage.

Some Illinois areas reported up to 95 per cent of the peach buds damaged by cold.

Michigan officials said fruit-bud development was about 10 days later than customary.

The effects of the crop delays, agriculture experts said, would

Van Benschoten Is Mental Health Drive Chairman

It was announced today by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health that William H. van Benschoten of West Park has accepted the position of general chairman for its 1965 fund drive.

Mr. van Benschoten, recently elected to the executive board of the association, said:

"In the past, the work of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health has been seriously handicapped by a lack of adequate operating funds.

"This month we are given the opportunity to support the Mental Health Association with contributions towards this much needed project.

"In its short history the Ulster County association has succeeded in establishing a headquarters at 27 East O'Reilly Street, and helped in establishing a rehabilitation center, known as Halfway House in Kingston. The association has also compiled and maintained a catalogue of films and slides on mental health and illness.

In the next few days the di-

College Trustees Get Dates on Building

The trustees of Ulster County Community College yesterday received what they termed an optimistic progress report concerning the development of the Stone Ridge campus from the college architects and engineers.

Property Owners Have Recourse on Prices: Hemphill

Urban Renewal Director Eric Hemphill said today that the U.R. Agency is "obligated to pay a fair market value" for properties it is acquiring in the Broadway East area.

In reply to a charge issued Monday by owners of seven pieces of property in the Broadway East area that they were being "forced" to sell their homes and that they have not been offered fair prices for their properties, Hemphill told The Freeman that, "If a property owner has his own appraisal - the Agency will be glad to review it. If it can be shown, and substantiated by the property owner's appraisal that the price we have established (based on our appraisals) is in error or incomplete we shall be pleased to make a re-evaluation of the price."

Blame Absentee Landlords

The homeowners of the seven properties involved - which incidentally are in the first area to be acquired and for which the Agency has been attempting to negotiate for the properties for approximately 10 months - said that they had been forced to sell their homes because of a "situation of blight we had nothing to do with."

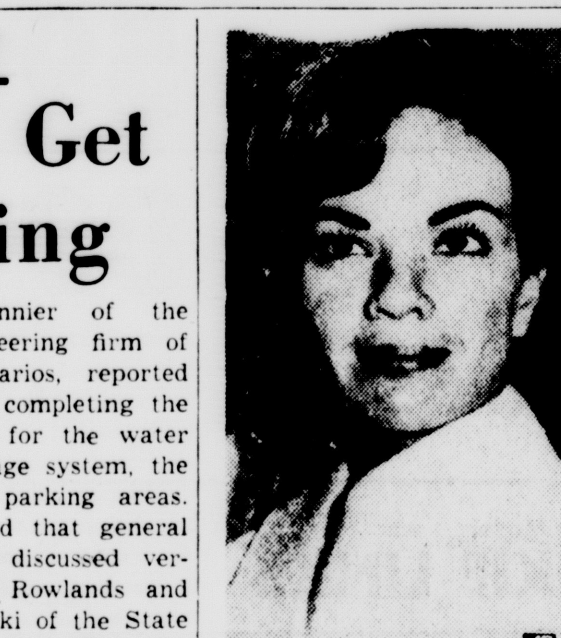

They said that "absentee landlords" were to be blamed for the blight, and that the U.R. Agency failed to meet their demands and threatened to assume their properties through condemnation.

Hemphill's statement: "The Agency has learned of a letter signed by seven property owners in the Broadway East urban renewal area who have stated they have not been offered fair prices for their properties."

Says Agency Obligated

"May I say that the Agency is obligated to pay a 'fair market value' for properties it is acquiring in the Broadway East area. To determine the fair market value, the Agency has had two independent appraisals made of each property and has had their appraisals reviewed by its real estate consultant. The Agency has determined what it feels is a fair price; based on the appraisals, and our consultant's report."

Senators Expect To Beat Kennedy On Poll Tax Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders expected to defeat today a drive led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to write a state and local poll-tax ban into the Negro voting-rights bill.

Kennedy's amendment has divided supporters of the legislation and kept the Senate from making much headway since debate on the bill began April 22.

The Massachusetts Democrat claimed Monday at least 42 of the 100 senators would back the amendment.

Administration leaders from President Johnson down have said that a constitutional problem is raised by attempting to outlaw poll taxes as a requirement for voting in state and local elections.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois also has attacked the constitutionality of the amendment, offered by Kennedy and 38 other senators. Civil-rights organizations have strongly urged its adoption.

Mr. Martin Luther King Jr., in Selma, Ala., Monday to push a Negro voting drive, told a news conference that defeat of the anti-poll-tax amendment would be a national tragedy.

Once the poll-tax issue is resolved, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana says he will try to get an agreement to limit Senate debate on other legislation.

Bill to Inspect All Cars Goes To Assembly, Senate for Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — All motor vehicles in New York State would undergo annual inspections under a measure approved by the Senate, 41-14, and sent to the Assembly.

4-Year-Old Cars Now
Now, only vehicles over four years old must be inspected.

Prior to Monday's action, the Senate had passed a measure to require safety inspection of all new vehicles before they may be sold in the state. That bill, too, is pending in the Assembly.

In other fields, the Assembly has approved legislation to make the office of local welfare commissioner appointive, rather than elective.

The Assembly also supported, 118-21, a measure to allow 15 per cent of the Regents College Scholarships to be used out-of-state. The option for out-of-state study would be given on the basis of the highest marks scored in competitive examinations for the grants.

In other action at the Capitol, the Assembly:

—Backed a move to amend the constitution to allow state loans to help industry regardless of whether or not the industry was in a distressed employment area.

—Supported a bill to require an engineer on every railroad train, even if it was completely automated.

—Approved, 87-43, a bill to authorize the state commissioner of agriculture and markets to speed action in milk marketing complaints against dealers.

—Gave final legislative approval to a measure to abolish the requirement that lands acquired by municipalities under the state park and recreation act must not be less than 50 acres. There would be no minimum size.

—Killed overwhelmingly a proposal to allow retired police officers to carry guns without having obtained permits.

—Passed, 123-17, a bill to allow a locality up to six months

Overture For Peace Fades Out Gen. Wessin Fails To Resign Post

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin changed his mind Monday night about resigning as a peace overture to the Dominican rebels. The U.S. government apparently hoped the loyalist junta head, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, would talk him into resigning.

"The question of Gen. Wessin's resignation is a matter between Gen. Imbert and Gen. Wessin," a U.S. Embassy official said in a statement.

"We did understand from official sources that Gen. Wessin was going to resign at 4 p.m. Monday. We now understand that he is reconsidering his decision," the statement said.

Pressed by U. S.

The United States had pressed for Wessin's retirement as a peace gesture toward the rebels, whose forces he fought with planes and tanks before the arrival of U.S. troops. Many Dominicans held him responsible for the air bombardments of Santo Domingo that took more than 1,000 lives.

Col. Francisco Caamaño Domo, proclaimed provisional president by the rebels, has been demanding that Wessin leave the country. The general commands the San Isidro training base 20 miles from Santo Domingo, one of the country's key military posts, and was a leader of the military revolt that overthrew President Juan Bosch in 1963.

U.S. sources said Wessin sent a letter Sunday to U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. in which he expressed his willingness to resign from the army for the good of the country. The letter was written after he met with Bennett and Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of the 21,000 U.S. Marines and paratroopers in the Dominican Republic.

No Explanation
There was no explanation for the general's change of heart.

Reliable sources said the U.S. Embassy and representatives of the Organization of American States were trying to arrange a meeting between junta chief Imbert and rebel leader Caamaño, but that Caamaño so far had refused.

Caamaño met with the papal nuncio, Msgr. Emanuele Clavio, Monday. The nuncio, who represents Pope Paul VI in the Dominican Republic, reportedly carried a message from the junta. Results of the meeting were not disclosed.

In another peace gesture, Imbert on Sunday dismissed eight officers considered offensive to the rebels. Caamaño's comment on the move was: "They have killed the flies and left the bees."

Reports Surplus Food Plan Here May Add to Tax Burden

The distribution of surplus food to the needy of Ulster County under a federal plan in which the state participates would add to the burden of county taxpayers, a committee report of the Board of Supervisors revealed today.

A report on an extensive study of the Surplus Food Plan by the Public Welfare Committee of the Board of Supervisors was presented at the Thursday night meeting of the board, Town of Kingston Supervisor Douglas Dye, (R) chairman, said today.

Conferees Held
A study on distribution of surplus foods to eligible persons in Ulster County started in February. Since that time the committee has met with a delegation from CORE and also James Donnelly, chief of the Bureau of Surplus Food in Albany.

As a result of the study by the committee, indications are that if the plan were put into effect it would add to the tax burden rather than relieve welfare costs.

Chairman Dye stated that the reason for the long study was to weigh the additional burden against the services that low-income families of Ulster County would receive under the Surplus Food Plan.

At the April meeting of the board of supervisors Mrs. Edward Averill of 85 Abel Street appeared before the board and advocated participation in the plan. She outlined the plan and gave figures of cost in adjoining counties.

Offers Resolution
At that meeting Supervisor Donald E. Gregory, (D) 13th Ward offered a resolution that surplus food be delivered to eligible Ulster County residents. The resolution was referred to the Welfare Committee after it was stated that the committee had already undertaken a study of the plan.

Several supervisors spoke on the issue, inquiring as to the cost of delivery, need for additional personnel and whether the cost of the program would reduce the cost of welfare.

Commissioner of Public Welfare Joseph Fitzsimmons is running an evaluation to establish

Despite Order on Election Demos Still Plan Own New Reapportion Formula

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of the Democratic-controlled Legislature today stood by their announced intention to produce a new reapportionment plan despite a federal court order calling for a special election Nov. 2. The election would be held under a five-month-old Republican reapportionment formula which the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal, has said violates New York's constitution.

The federal court order here Monday was interpreted as ruling in effect that the right of New Yorkers to equal representation under the U.S. Constitution is more important than state constitutional questions.

An appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court is possible, but action in the high court before November is considered unlikely.

The four-year-old court fight for a new reapportionment formula has been led by R. Peter Straus, president of radio station WJCA here and Democratic state campaign manager last year.

Although he had opposed use of the Republican plan next fall, he said he was "profoundly gratified" by the court decision. In any event, he noted, there will be a special election under a new formula.

The Republican plan allots a larger share of seats to Democratic New York City and its suburbs than given in the present formula, drafted 70 years ago. The basis of the federal court ruling is the over-representation of rural Upstate areas and under-representation of the more populous areas, largely Democratic.

Under the present constitution, senators and assemblymen elected last November were given two-year terms. These were cut to one year by the federal court order. The court stipulated that its order would apply only to next November's election. Senators and assemblymen would serve under the old formula.

High Court Action Unlikely
The first musical program to be broadcast via the Early Bird Satellite on CBS-TV Monday night, featured the Helsinki University Chorus. The program was a tribute to the late Jean Sibelius, Finland's illustrious composer.

This historic musical accomplishment of the space age will be of particular interest to area residents in view of the fact that the Helsinki Chorus has been contracted for an appearance in Kingston under the sponsorship of the Community Concert Association. The chorus plans a tour of the United States in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Finnish composer's birth.

Timely for Area
Mrs. Harry Seitz and Mrs. Ralph Harper, co-chairmen of the membership campaign for Community Concerts told The Freeman this morning in a joint statement:

"The appearance of the Helsinki University Chorus on the Early Bird Satellite was extremely timely for the Ulster County area because we launched our membership campaign on the same night.

"We were delighted with this musical 'first' inasmuch as Community Concert Association is

Six Yanks Killed in Two Areas Song Be Retaken By Loyalist Forces

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong occupied a town of 15,000 persons 74 miles north of Saigon for seven hours today, killing 5 American military advisers and wounding 13 others in one of the heaviest onslaughts of the Vietnamese war.

Yank Toll Now 372
In another operation, a U.S. Marine was killed and six were wounded when a company of leathernecks shot their way into a complex of Communist-controlled villages near the Da Nang Air Base.

The casualties raised the total of U.S. combat dead in Viet Nam to 372 since December 1961.

Planes Stage 2 Raids
U.S. Air Force planes made two raids against North Viet Nam today. A military spokesman said 16 F105 fighter-bombers, supported by 24 other planes, destroyed six barracks in the Vinh area, left an armed junk apparently sinking, destroyed two trucks and damaged five buildings on Route 8, the spokesman said.

Two Skyhawks from the carrier Oriskany reported three direct hits on a railroad bridge about 13 miles south of Thanh Hoa.

All the planes returned safely to their bases, the spokesman said.

The heaviest American casualties were suffered in Song Be, Cambodian border. Government a provincial capital near the forces reoccupied the town under cover of a heavy air attack by U.S. Air Force jets, but the Communists dug in along a river northeast of the town. A major battle appeared to be developing.

Communists groundfire hit one American propeller-driven fighter-bomber in the engine, forcing it to land. An Army helicopter picked up the pilot unhurt 15 minutes later.

"We're really pouring the air on them. We're giving them everything we can lay our hands on," a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon said.

Twenty Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 50 wounded. There was no estimate of Viet Cong casualties. But the U.S. spokesman said a U.S. B57 scored a direct hit on an armored vehicle loaded with Viet Cong.

It was the first Red seizure of a provincial capital since last fall.

Mortar, Then Infantry
Song Be first came under heavy mortar attack at 1:55 a.m. The Communists followed up at 2:30 a.m. with an infantry assault in regimental strength on the town where about 30 U.S. advisers were stationed with a force of some 1,000 Vietnamese.

During the fighting helicopters were unable to land reinforcements because Red fire in the landing zones was too hot.

By daylight the guerrillas were well inside the town and engaged the defenders in house-to-house fighting.

One group of guerrillas fought their way into the mess hall of the U.S. Army advisory detachment, but all were killed in hand-to-hand fighting. A second group got into the hall and got away with a supply of rations.

The Communists seized the

Estimate Near 5 Billion To Draw Volunteer Force

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon experts estimate it would cost up to another $3 billion to $5 billion a year to raise military pay and incentives enough to attract an all-volunteer military force.

This calculation, sources said today, has been made by officials studying the draft and other means of getting manpower necessary to maintain the armed services at their required strengths.

This study, it is understood, will show that the draft must be continued at least until 1970.

However, sources said the report will make a series of recommendations that are designed to stimulate enlistments, utilize manpower resources now

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Chuck Claxton, an Armstrong College senior, was preparing to close out a special program before the student body Monday when he felt a tug at his sleeve. It was Dr. Henry Ashmore, the college president, and he whispered frantically in Claxton's ear. With an embarrassed look, the young MC turned to his audience and said: "I was just about to forget that our main guest has a speech to make." Gov. Carl E. Sanders, featured speaker on naid for "Gov. Sanders' Appreciation Day," then rose and spoke.

Plans Geneva Plant

NEW YORK (AP) — Libby McNeil & Libby reported it will build a vegetable canning plant at Geneva, N.Y., to process sauerkraut, green beans and wax beans.

The company said the plant will occupy a 123-acre site. Construction will begin this spring and is to be completed this fall.

Moscow Protests, Demands Ouster Of U.S. Attache

MOSCOW (AP) — The Foreign Ministry demanded today removal of a U.S. Embassy attache in Moscow because of alleged activities among African students in the Soviet Union, Tass reported.

In a news story broadcast in the Russian language, the official Tass agency identified the attache as N. Garnett.

It said the ministry had declared him "persona non grata" because of activities incompatible with the status of a diplomat.

In normal practice, foreign nationals held to be persona non grata are banished from the Soviet Union.

Tass said the ministry has protested to the U.S. Embassy about "the unlawful conduct of Garnett."

In recent months a number of students from Africa have expressed disenchantment with the Soviet Union, complaining that they have been subjected to a color bar and mistreated in various ways.

13 Fewer Racing Days

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee has sliced 13 days off a proposed 25-day extension in the number of racing days permitted licensed pari-mutuel harness racing operations in Pennsylvania.

Rep. W. Brady Hetrick, D-Mifflin, chairman of the committee, said Monday the bill would be reported to the floor next week calling for a 62-day season for each racing group instead of the 75-day season originally proposed in the bill.

Presently, the four licensed operations are permitted 50 days of racing each year. The proposed increase was introduced in the House last week. A similar bill is before the Senate advocating a 100-day season.

Five Towns, Village Talk Over Program for Planning

A professional planning study was discussed at a recent meeting of Planning Board members of the Towns of Hurley, Marbletown, Rochester, Rosendale and Wawarsing and the Village of Rosendale.

The firm of Brown & Anthony City Planners Inc., has been tentatively selected to make the professional study proposed under the Urban Planning Assistance Program.

John W. Scribano, chairman of the Rochester Planning Board, presided at the meeting held at the Accord Fire Hall.

Dr. Harry A. Anthony of the planning firm extended his appreciation and that of Francis L. Brown, a member of the firm, to the planning boards for their selection of the firm to handle the proposed study. Dr. Anthony said his firm had already done a great deal of work in Ulster County, including Woodstock, New Paltz, Ellenville and other communities.

Dr. Anthony noted there would be a delay of several months before the study could be undertaken because approval would have to be given by the Federal government and the State of New York. He stressed that his firm, at the authorization of the six communities involved, would prepare and submit applications to the Federal government for this study. He said these applications are at times not acted upon for several months for various reasons, one of them being that federal funds for such a project might be exhausted so there would be a delay until new funds are appropriated.

Dr. Anthony told the group that it should be considered that the selection of his consulting firm was tentative only and based upon government approval of the joint study. With this in mind, Dr. Anthony outlined the aid that might be expected for this program.

The planning consultant said that aid would be of two types—financial and supervisory. Four dollars out of every six that the program costs would be paid by the federal government and an additional dollar would be paid by the State. The supervisory aid, he noted, would be the direct supervision of the program by the State Department of Commerce, Bureau of Planning, which would delegate a representative to oversee the entire program during the two years of its operation.

Dr. Anthony said that John S. Deffigos, the state representative who has been working with the communities involved in the project the last two years, had been tentatively selected to do the supervision.

Copies of the firm's preliminary scope of services and planning documents to be supplied, were distributed at the meeting. The documents would include surveys and analysis of existing conditions for each community, diagnoses of future needs, development plans and a study of the means to affect them.

To Hear Discussions

In addition to regular meetings of planning boards in each of the six towns, it was tentatively proposed to hold three meetings each of two communities at a time to hear State and planning consultant representatives discuss projects. There also would be three joint meetings during the two-year period, at which all boards would be present.

These meetings would be held separately in each community and the public would be invited to participate in the discussions.

Dr. Anthony also said he would hold preliminary meetings with each community to establish a working program acceptable to that community and to the State before applications are made.

The schedule of meetings was unanimously approved on motion of Albert E. Milliken of Rochester, seconded by Jay Molyneux, West Hurley.

Police Group on Status

Dr. Anthony called for a spokesman from each of the communities to state his town's particular problems, such as water supply, sewage and garbage disposal, inadequate or hazardous roads, parking prob-

Forty persons attended the Accord meeting, including Robert Linton of the Cornell Agricultural College and a number of town supervisors and officials.

Scribano reported on an executive Committee meeting, which he attended with William Schiff of Hurley, Lester Roosa of Marbletown, John O'Sullivan of Rosendale Village and Morris Solomon of Wawarsing.

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

GET THAT STEEL WHILE IT'S STILL HOT!

The British Laborites, who have not yet managed to shuffle off the last vestiges of doctrinaire socialism, still persist in the delusion that the way to cure inefficiency in steel manufacture is to "nationalize" the big steel companies. But in America we cling to the anti-trust approach to insure competitive efficiency—and thereby hangs a tale that the British should be pondering.

Specifically, the British Laborites should have had observers spotted at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's Lackawanna, New York, plant on this merry morning of May 11. If they were there, these observers would be witnessing a remarkable sight. They would be watching as an 80-car unit train developed by the New York Central Railroad backs up to the Lackawanna mill's loading platforms, ready to receive hot steel slabs ranging from 900 to 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit. Anchored by chains and placed on insulating cross beams in the gondola cars, the steel slabs going out of Lackawanna are destined for the new $350 million Bethlehem rolling and tinplate mills at a point 500 miles away in Burns Harbor, Indiana. Still warm on arrival, the slabs will be fed into a production line that has no basic steel facilities to supply it with raw hot steel in the immediate Indiana-South Chicago area.

What today's unit hot slab operation on the New York Central signifies is the emancipation of steel makers from the necessity of having totally integrated facilities all in one place. From now on the steel man who can command the cooperation of a progressive railroad will be able to compete almost anywhere without having to invest millions for heavy basic steel-making equipment. As the New York Central's President Alfred Perlman puts it in learned technical lingo, "By shipping slabs via unit train, we minimize the delay factor traditional in non-integrated production."

Why does this carry a moral for British Laborites? Well, if "nationalization" had been invoked to increase steel availability in the Indiana-South Chicago region, nobody would have thought of trying to link basic hot slab mills in western New York State with new rolling capacity 500 miles away on the shores of Lake Michigan. "Nationalization" does not provide for an ingenious tie-in between a great railroad seeking new freight sources and a steel company that has not seen its way clear to make a new investment in completely integrated facilities in a new place.

If the British would give up the nationalization fetish and turn to the anti-trust approach, they would have a relatively foolproof method of encouraging steel competition. True enough, the anti-trust approach, in America, is not always reasonably applied. Some years ago the Bethlehem Steel people, wishing to become competitive with U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Inland Steel in the Indiana-South Chicago area, tried to effect a merger with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, which is a Midwest operator. With Youngstown facilities, Bethlehem would not have had to make a huge new investment in the Midwest. But the Department of Justice turned Bethlehem down on the merger proposition, arguing that it would increase steel "monopoly."

This, on its face, was silly, for a Bethlehem-Youngstown merger of Midwest facilities would have led to increased competition within the area involved. U.S. Steel, Republic, and Inland would have had to look to their Midwest lairs.

The point for the "nationalizers" is that misapplication of the anti-trust law did not stop Bethlehem from becoming a Midwest competitor of U.S. Steel and Republic Steel. The company merely shifted its approach. It turned to the New York Central Railroad for help and came up with a method of bringing hot steel slabs from a plant which is already owned in western New York State to the new rolling mills which it could afford to build in Indiana. The Youngstown-Indiana facilities were not needed.

What this demonstrates is that the American system is foolproof. Where "anti-trust" helps, fine and dandy. But even where it hurts it can't hurt permanently. The British should look into this before they ruin their steel industry with "nationalization." (Copyright, 1965, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The DOCTOR SAYS

Fewer House Calls Mean Better Service for You

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many of my readers complain that most doctors no longer make house calls. We should examine some of the reasons for this.

I can illustrate one aspect by recalling a call to "come quickly, please hurry" to attend a girl who had received a cut on her ankle on the school hockey field. When I arrived I found that this girl had a moderately bleeding wound that needed a few stitches.

The coach had already applied a pressure bandage, which was fine, but the playing field was no place to sew up a wound. We took the girl to my office where everything was at hand. In this case my trip to the patient accomplished nothing. The girl should have been taken to a hospital emergency room or to my office without delay.

Your doctor today can make a much more accurate diagnosis of your condition and can apply much more effective treatment than was the case 20 years ago. This is in part the result of a variety of tests that cannot be made at your home. Although there are still a few instances in which a house call may be justified, they are not nearly so common as they were in the days when all your doctor could do was to take your temperature, feel your pulse and give you the comfort of his sympathetic presence in addition to a few pills to relieve your pain.

Today's doctor believes that if you are not too sick to get to his office, he can serve you better there than in your home. If you are too sick, you should be bundled up and taken to the hospital either in the family car or by ambulance. This often saves time for both doctor and patient and results in a more speedy and accurate diagnosis and more effective treatment.

We doctors may have lost some of the suave bedside manner of the "good old days," but as patients you have gained a better chance for a speedy recovery.

Some of my friends say that BHT, added to foods to preserve freshness, has been found to cause various ills. Is that true?

A—butylated hydroxy-toluene is a preservative that is used in foods and other products. It may cause an allergic type of skin eruption but, when it is used within the limits prescribed by Food and Drug Administration, it is harmless.

"It is clear," says Selzer, "that arrests and penalties for drunk driving or drunk and disorderly offenses do not protect the driving public... Three of the 72 drivers were driving without a license."

Any conviction based on the abuse of alcohol, he says, should alert authorities to the possibility that they are dealing with an emotionally ill individual whose psychiatric problems have immunized them against legal threats and educational appeals.

The alcoholic driver today, even when repeatedly apprehended, goes on until he removes himself by way of a fatal injury.

"This places other drivers," Selzer sums up, "in positions much like ducks in a shooting gallery."

Washington News

BY BRUCE BOISSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Despite stubborn assertions to the contrary, the long struggle in South Viet Nam has not been primarily a civil war.

Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota and Wayne Morse of Oregon have given new voice to the contention it is a civil war. They are echoed elsewhere in public life, and in the academic world among both professors and students.

In his new book, "The Making of a Quagmire," New York Times foreign correspondent David Halberstam says flatly:

"The new Indochina war was not a spontaneous uprising from the south. It was part of a systematic and calculated conspiracy on the part of the Communist government in Hanoi to take over the south."

Bernard Fall, recognized authority on Viet Nam, indicates again and again through his writings that the current war was given its impetus and has taken its direction and key support from Hanoi.

Neither these two nor other concurring first-hand observers can be dismissed as parroting an official U. S. government line. They have relied heavily on independent sources of information and judgement. They are highly critical of many aspects of both American and South Vietnamese policy and performance.

McGOVERN SAYS THE WAR really is between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Fall points out that, although the NLF was set up in December 1960, this Hanoi facade never got around to disclosing names of its alleged leaders until mid-April of 1962. To Fall, this was proof of NLF's "wholly artificial character."

"Even in 1962, the NLF bothered to announce only 30 of its 82-member committee."

That same year, Hanoi created the Viet Nam People's Revolutionary Party for the South, but announced no names of founders. Circulars from hard-core Lao-Dong Communist party headquarters in North Viet Nam informed Lao-Dong members in the south that the new party was merely a tactical necessity and would be under Lao-Dong control.

The intent, plainly, was to set up a party which could pretend to be free of ties with Hanoi.

ON THE MILITARY SIDE, the picture is muddier, yet it offers no great factual triumph for the "civil war" argument.

Fall says that by mid-1963 Hanoi may have dispatched 12,000 infiltrators into South Viet Nam. Much earlier, he indicates, the North Vietnamese had infiltrated two full division staffs to lead and co-ordinate guerrilla operations below the 17th parallel.

From what sources were these infiltrators drawn?

In the exchange of repatriated persons after the Geneva pact of 1954, some 100,000 Red soldiers including many native southerners went north. Also making the trek were substantial numbers of raw recruits, and many dependents of hard-core guerrillas left behind. A large portion of all these were trained for later fighting or underground effort in South Viet Nam.

BUT THE ACTUAL BEGINNING of warfare in South Viet Nam goes back to 1957, when murderous assaults on key village officials were reported in great volume in the southern-most sectors. Aimed at destroying the country's administrative and economic fabric, these attacks now have killed some 15,000 leaders in all areas.

The guerrillas who began the conflict in this manner were no innocent peasants distressed over the price of rice in Saigon. They were some 5,000-6,000 veterans of the war with the French. They just stayed behind at repatriation time.

Says Fall in "The Two Viet Nams":

"A smaller group of elite guerrillas... quietly buried its well-greased weapons, hit its portable radio transmitters, and returned for the time being to the humdrum tasks of sowing and harvesting rice."

Clearly they had southern sympathizers from the outset. But their ample native recruits have come in good part from the loyalty won by success or compelled by terror. No expert knows the real mixture. And, in any event, the guiding hand was always moving in Hanoi.

He sat facing Clay. The champ was trying to keep Willy Pastrano from quitting. "One day I'd train and look good," Willie said in that unassuming one. "The next day I'm like a wet rag."

Cassius Clay sat up. He is a handsome dark mountain, seeping energy. "You're like me," he shouted. "You're like Sugar Ray. One day up, one day down. Me, I fight right through those downs."

"You got style, man. You stay on your toes and pop-pop, pop-pop. I call you Woody the Woodpecker. Take it from me, Willy, don't quit," Pastrano, who has a wife and five children, shook his head. "In this game, you have the championship or you have nothing. I have nothing, Cass. That Torres it me so hard it didn't even hurt. Suddenly I couldn't breathe and I got gray spots in front of my eyes."

The champ looked behind the couch and received a nod from his wife. "Get the films of the fight," he said. "Study them. If you kept moving, Willy... The trouble is," Willy said, "I should have been outside the man, not against the ropes."

Clay shook his head sadly. "You got to make a man like Torres hit at you. Not hit you. Make him throw those arms for maybe five rounds. Then he's not so fast anymore. You start hitting him."

They talked fighters awhile. Willy said: "Jack Johnson was before my time, but he gave the Negroes a bad name. Liquor and white women. Cass, you give everybody a good name. You live clean." The champ became serious. He clasped and unclasped his big hands. "I don't know why people say I belong to the Black Muslims. I belong to the religion of Islam. Nothing black about it. We believe in Mohammed and Allah."

"How do you feel about Liston?" Willy said. Clay looked at the ceiling of his little house. "It's a do-or-die thing, Willy. So much bragging that I got to live up to. I can hear them saying: 'You're not the greatest anymore, Big Muth.' Even now, people on the street yell: 'I'm just praying that Sonny Liston takes you apart. Just praying.'"

Mrs. Clay began to put plates on the table. She's married eight months, and does all the cooking and the housework. A baby is not expected yet. "How

United States Is Seen As Averting World War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The American people may as well resign themselves to the prospect that both in Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic the conflicts may be long-drawn out. Paradoxical as it may seem, the American policy in each instance can do more to avert the disaster of a third world war than all the conferences and discussions of peace objectives in the last decade have accomplished.

For what the United States is doing in Southeast Asia and in the Caribbean is both significant and constructive. Pacifists and other citizens who would like to make sure that a holocaust is avoided might well take a hard look at the facts of international behavior which led a supposedly civilized society into two world wars, causing the deaths of millions of human beings and leaving on the surviving peoples scars that have not been removed by the passage of time.

In Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic, the issue today is the same. Will an altruistic and humanitarian nation ready to supply billions of dollars for relief and development or armed forces to repel aggression, be thwarted and frustrated by capricious critics or misguided appeasers inside and outside the United States?

The fallacy they do not perceive is that, once the tyranny of Communist imperialism takes over—particularly in the Caribbean, where Cuba stands as a realistic example of the tragedy that can ensue elsewhere in Latin America—the struggle against a truly dangerous intervention in the affairs of weaker republics of this hemisphere cannot be abandoned by the United States. For the cause is as much one of self-preservation of the people of this country against threats from potential missile bases in nearby islands as it is the avoidance of a world war which could involve also the peoples of every other continent.

Much of the criticism of the policy of the United States government in Santo Domingo is based on superficial thinking. Of what possible avail, for instance, is it to argue that the Communists who infiltrated the Dominican Republic and helped to ferment revolution have not yet been convicted in the court of public opinion and that sufficient proof of their insidious devilry has not been produced? Also, of what real consequence is the argument that what the United States has done by intervening in Santo Domingo will hurt us with the other Latin American nations? This is an age-worn contention.

The truth is the peoples of the Central and South American countries want freedom and rarely get it. They seek a better standard of living for their growing populations, but they will never achieve it through communism. Their only salvation lies in such projects as the "Alliances for Progress" and the constant willingness of the United States to step in with its military forces to keep the Communist enemy from committing the peoples of this hemisphere to perennial slavery and bondage.

Despite the revived criticisms of the armed interventions by the United States in past years, the fact remains that this country has not annexed a single foot of territory of another country in this hemisphere. It has, indeed, made many sacrifices and even fought a major war, more than a half-century ago, to liberate Cuba from oppression by a European power. The American record of intervention has been criticized as "gunboat diplomacy," but not a single instance can be cited to show that the American purpose was tainted. Wherever a country has been temporarily occupied not only to protect American lives but to save the native peoples themselves from the greater dangers that faced them, the end result has been a withdrawal of the military contingents when peaceful conditions have been achieved.

In not all the instances have the villains who threatened these countries come from the outside, as there have been groups and factions which have selfishly exploited the peasant population and obstructed the reforms that could have improved the standard of living and the economic welfare of the country affected.

Today in Santo Domingo the main source of trouble will not be eradicated unless the forces of the United States remain in the Dominican Republic—either alone or with the military units of the Organization of American States—long enough to make certain that an established government will deal effectively with efforts of the Communists to carry on subversive measures.

The Washington government has a grave problem on its hands and deserves the support of members of Congress of both parties. For the situation in the Dominican Republic concerns not just that tiny island but the future of all other countries in the Caribbean. If abandoned, Latin America can crumble just as Southeast Asia can disintegrate, and this could lead to a third world war.

Conservatives Pledge Candidate If Rocky Runs

The Conservative Party reacted swiftly to Nelson Rockefeller's announcement that he would seek a third term as governor in 1966. "If Rockefeller runs for re-election", State Chairman J. Daniel Mahoney stated, "the Conservative Party will definitely run a candidate for governor in 1966."

"Nelson Rockefeller is simply a New Deal retread", Mahoney continued, "whose state program has been expatriated from the Democratic Party of New York State. Under Rockefeller, spending figures have doubled over the peak figures of the Harriman Administration, and a state sales tax has been enacted into law. Furthermore, Governor Rockefeller spearheaded a vicious campaign against Senator Goldwater last year, whose purpose was not to produce a genuine conservative-liberal debate, but to discredit the conservative movement and destroy its foremost political champion."

"This was a typical 'dog in the manger' Rockefeller performance", Mahoney continued, "following the pattern set in 1960, when Rockefeller continually attacked the Eisenhower Administration on the phony 'missile gap' and 'national prestige' issues, and then demanded crippling concessions from Vice President Nixon in return for his token support of the Republican national ticket."

"No possible Democratic candidate could merit the endorsement of the Conservative Party", Mahoney concluded. "Furthermore, in view of the warm and cordial relationship which has developed recently between Governor Rockefeller and Mayor Wagner, it is far from certain that the Democratic Party will wage a real campaign against Rockefeller in 1966. Accordingly, to ensure a real choice to the voters of New York State and a thorough review of the record of the Rockefeller Administration, the Conservative Party will definitely field a candidate for governor in 1966 if Nelson Rockefeller persists in his announced intent to seek re-election."

Plant Would Be In Reserve in Spawning Season

WASHINGTON (AP)—An attorney for the Consolidated Edison Co. says its proposed power plant near Cornwall, N.Y., would be used only on an emergency basis during the striped bass spawning season in the Hudson.

The attorney, Randall J. Lehoucq Jr., testified Monday at a house subcommittee hearing on fish protection devices to be provided at the hydro-electric project at Storm King Mountain along the Hudson River.

The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries subcommittee continued its hearing today. Another hearing, on proposed routes for overhead transmission lines from the $160-million project, resumed today after a weekend recess.

In his testimony, Lehoucq said the plant would be held primarily in reserve between mid-May and mid-June each year, the spawning season for striped bass.

Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., an opponent of the power project, criticized state and federal action in the controversy over fish protection. The federal government, he told the subcommittee, should have a charter to protect fish resources when the state does not act.

Chunk of Steel Rips Through 3 Engines of XB70-A

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A small chunk of steel ripped through three engines of the giant XB70-A bomber during supersonic flight, officials say, almost ending the plane's troubled career.

Officials said the $750-million plane, flying at its fastest and highest ever—1,680 miles an hour at 64,000 feet—was almost lost in the mishap last Friday.

Test pilots Al White and Lt. Col. Fritz Fulton reported they first thought all six of the plane's engines were destroyed, but found three operating properly and a fourth that could produce partial power. They landed the craft safely on a dry lake bed.

At the time, the aircraft firm announced only that the flight was cut short by unexplained buffeting.

II County Juniors

travel to Hamilton by bus in company with the Boy Staters from Dutchess, Orange and Rockland Counties. They leave Sunday morning, June 27 and arrive at Colgate in time for registration at 1 p. m.

They will return by bus the following Saturday. The Orange and Rockland County selectees will board the bus at Newburgh and the Dutchess County boys will join them at Poughkeepsie. Ulster County selectees join the group at Highland, Port Ewen and Saugerties.

Boys State is a citizenship training program designed to meet the needs of youth and is sponsored by the American Legion, Department of New York. Various posts throughout the State sponsor boys who spend the week at Colgate University under guidance of experienced counselors.

During the past few years Boys state has been very fortunate in obtaining the services of high school teachers and law school students who have been with the program for many years. Their services have contributed greatly to the success of the program as they are experienced personnel who know boys and parliamentary procedure.

30 Cities Formed

Thirty cities will be formed at Boys state and each city will consist of thirty boys. The 30 cities will be divided into 10 counties. A counselor will be assigned to each city and it will be the duty of the counselor to assist the boys and guide them in their activities.

Leadership, character, scholarship and service are the necessary qualifications a boy must possess in order to be admitted to Boys State. Merit and ability alone is the basis for the selection of the boys and no qualified boy is barred for any reason.

Boys must be at least 15 years of age at the time of making application, must have completed their junior year and intend to return to school in the fall as seniors to complete their high school education. Sponsoring posts follow the recommendations of the boys' high school principal and his committees, in selecting the boys.

No two pearls are exactly alike.

Local Ambulance Adds New Palts To Service Area

Doctors Ambulance Service, 77 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston will extend its service area to New Paltz beginning on Saturday, it was announced today by Gilbert E. Gray, proprietor.

Doctors Ambulance Service will assume the service formerly provided by New Paltz Fire Department. In a recent announcement, New Paltz Fire Department said it could no longer provide the service due to the changing nature of the type of employment of department members. This made it impossible to maintain the required standby crews.

New Paltz residents may still use the same telephone number for ambulance service in New Paltz, or may call Doctors Ambulance Service direct at the Kingston number. A schedule of fees is available on request.

Doctors Ambulance started in business on August 6, 1962. Since that time it has responded to more than 3,000 calls within Ulster County and has made calls in neighboring counties and states.

The staff is highly trained and includes George Dohnken, James Sills, Donald Popp and Joseph Sener.

All ambulances are equipped with oxygen and in addition the firm has an oxygen therapy service to supply the home, churches, schools, factories and automobiles.

Police Continue Burglary Probe

Police continued their investigation today of three burglaries and a larceny overnight off Central Broadway.

Detective Lt. Lemuel Howard said burglars broke into the R & R Automatic Transmission Service at 525 Broadway; Kingston Post 150, American Legion, 11 West O'Reilly Street, and Myron J. Michael Junior High School. He said that someone also broke into a juke box in the East O'Reilly Street Laundromat, which is open 24 hours a day.

Lt. Howard said intruders ransacked the R & R firm and stole an adding machine, after breaking a small window on a door. He said $6 in cash and a small quantity of intoxicating beverages and candy were taken from the Legion Post, where entry was gained through a side window. He said vending machines also were pried into.

Detectives said the principal's office at MJM was ransacked. Entry was gained through a side window.

Patrolmen Lewis Keator, Booth Pendell, Richard Scherer and Raymond Wells investigated along with Det. Leonard Ellisworth, Lt. Howard and other members of the Detective Division.

Saugerties Man Serious, Auto Flips After Chase

In serious condition at Kingston Hospital is Michael Rudtke, 22, of Route 2, Box 454, Saugerties, who was ejected from his car Monday night when the car flipped over on Route 9W at Barclay Heights while the Rudtke car was being pursued at high speed by a state trooper.

At the time of the accident, state police report, the Rudtke car was proceeding south on Route 9W at a high rate of speed being pursued by Trooper David Wachtel of the Lake Katrine station. About 3/10 of a mile north of the intersection of Route 32 and 9-W, Rudtke passed several cars which were traveling south. As he was passing the last car in line, troopers reported, the Rudtke car went off the right shoulder of the road and struck a guard post and culvert and continued on a distance of 110 feet when it struck another culvert and Rudtke was ejected from the vehicle. Attorney Frederick H. Stang, will be the toastmaster at Sunday's testimonial dinner for Howard C. St. John and Bernhardt S. Kramer, it was announced today by William C. Klein, assistant chairman of the Republican City Committee, and general chairman of the dinner.

"Former Mayor Stang is an extremely articulate speaker with a delightfully subtle sense of humor," Klein said, "and we feel very fortunate that he has agreed to serve as toastmaster at this dinner honoring two men who have been close to him for so many years."

Other prominent Republicans will join former Mayor Stang in the testimonial dinner, Klein added. County chairman Kenneth L. Wilson will introduce the principal speaker, Representative John V. ## Kingston's 88 Monday Only 2 Under Record 90

That crazy weatherman must think that "spring" means "jump into summer."

For Kingston temperatures huffed and puffed up to 88 degrees Monday, just two degrees under the record 90 degrees set for the date in 1953.

Hot and humid it was and hot and humid it remained — right through today. The lowest temperature recorded during the day was 65 degrees. A year ago on the date, Old Merc' hit a balmy 70 and dropped to 59. The record low for the date was 32 set in 1947.

Rainfall—or lack of it—continued to be a problem. The city engineer's office reported precipitation of only .35 of an inch over the weekend. The rainfall only measured .942 inches for the first quarter of 1965. This was about two inches less for the comparable period in 1965. This year's drought when only 21.08 inches fell for the entire year and well below the 35.97 inches precipitation recorded in 1963.

Probe Vandalism At Glasco Club

Vandalism at the Glasco Gun Club Inc., on the Hudson River at Glasco is under investigation by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone. From appearances the club suffered some $800 damage when a group held a "beer party" on the premises.

The building, which is used as a refreshment stand during club shoots, was wrecked, windows torn out, the front door torn off and some 10 or more cases of clay pigeons were smashed. The flag pole was broken off and rammed through the rear of the building. The interior of the building was wrecked, windows were smashed and one window was torn from the frame and portions of the siding of the building torn off.

It is believed that the damage was done during the Easter vacation period when a group of young people allegedly held a "beer party" on the premises. The damage was discovered Friday when a member of the club went to the scene to prepare for a coming shoot.

Beer cans and broken bottles were strewn over the premises and the interior wrecked. Cabinets in the club house were thrown outside and smashed. Tubes used in discharging clay pigeons were bent and the entire premises generally wrecked.

Investigator Mayone reported not only was the club house and other structures wrecked but cars had been driven over the lawn, "chewing up" the grass.

The roof of the trap shed was torn off and several cases of clay pigeons stored in the shed were broken.

The investigation was being continued today.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By JIM GILPATRICK

Have we learned the lesson that past and present happenings can predict future events? For example, in pre-war days, intelligent people refused to face the predicaments of Hitlerism. Humanity paid a horrible price for blinding itself to his baseness mentality. And as a result of Stalinism, we are compelled today to live in co-existence with a communistic regime which shackles millions in iron collars behind barricaded iron curtains. This is the uncontradictable past and present. What about the future?

Right now we face the perplexing problem of how to handle other antagonisms as they arrogantly prepare for another war. Lets not delude ourselves. This is not fiction. The Red China renegades already have reactor producing nuclear fuels; have ample access to uranium. While their present industrial facilities are limited, these facilities can and will multiply. The question is what can we do about it? How should we do it?

Wisdom is needed. Paul pointed out the distinction between worldly wisdom and Divine wisdom. Earthly people can never acquire heavenly wisdom. But we can seek Divine guidance and pray for God's infinite wisdom to supply us with the right answers.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
By JIM GILPATRICK

Have we learned the lesson that past and present happenings can predict future events? For example, in pre-war days, intelligent people refused to face the predicaments of Hitlerism. Humanity paid a horrible price for blinding itself to his baseness mentality. And as a result of Stalinism, we are compelled today to live in co-existence with a communistic regime which shackles millions in iron collars behind barricaded iron curtains. This is the uncontradictable past and present. What about the future?

Right now we face the perplexing problem of how to handle other antagonisms as they arrogantly prepare for another war. Lets not delude ourselves. This is not fiction. The Red China renegades already have reactor producing nuclear fuels; have ample access to uranium. While their present industrial facilities are limited, these facilities can and will multiply. The question is what can we do about it? How should we do it?

Wisdom is needed. Paul pointed out the distinction between worldly wisdom and Divine wisdom. Earthly people can never acquire heavenly wisdom. But we can seek Divine guidance and pray for God's infinite wisdom to supply us with the right answers.

Contractors commenced work today on the installation of the new walk-up window in the vestibule at the main office of The State of New York National Bank at 301 Wall Street.

A. Raymond Atkins, president of the bank, noted that this added convenience to its depositors will meet the changing living and shopping customs in the Kingston area.

"The new walk-up window," Atkins stated, "will offer much greater convenience to banking customers since the window, upon completion, will be open after regular banking hours."

National Bank is constantly analyzing area development on a full scale basis and thus becomes responsible for many banking changes that later become community-wide."

The new walk-up window further modernizes the main banking offices of The State of New York National Bank, which was completely rebuilt as the most modern banking facility in the area in 1947. It was then that the present interior layout and limestone facade replaced the familiar old red-brick landmark which was originally built just a century ago this year. Organized in 1953, The State of New York Bank commenced operations on Fair Street, on just about the site now being cleared after demolition of the old County Clerk's office. In 1869, The State of New York National Bank—having become a national bank promptly under the National Bank Act of 1864 and now holding the oldest national bank charter in the Kingston area—acquired the First National Bank of Kingston and moved into the latter's more commodious building at the corner of Wall and John Streets, its present headquarters for a five-office banking system serving the City of Kingston, the Town of Ulster and the Village of New Paltz.

Field Trips Are Set for Seniors To Court House

Joseph P. Torraca, District Attorney of Ulster County, has announced that his office has initiated a program of inviting high school seniors throughout the county to the court house in Kingston, during May to extend the meaning of Law Day and to acquaint the students with the mechanics and function of the County Court with special emphasis upon the administration of criminal justice.

The field trip to the court house will include a guided tour of the district attorney's office, its activities and function. The members of the district attorney's staff cooperating in this endeavor are, Assistant District Attorneys Francis Vogt, Robert MacKinnon, Albert Lonstein, James Fisher and Philip Schunk.

Sheriff Claude Bell of Ulster County and his deputies will also take part in this program and will provide the students with a tour of the County Jail.

District Attorney Torraca said that County Judge Raymond J. Mino, will also address students on the administration of criminal justice.

The first group of high school students to take part will be those from Ellenville High May 13.

The second group of high school students will be those from New Paltz who will meet Tuesday, May 18, followed by Highland High School Wednesday, May 26, and the Kingston High School group who will also meet Wednesday, May 26.

Boy, 8, Injured In Auto Mishap

An eight-year-old Taylor boy was given emergency treatment at Kingston Hospital Monday night after he apparently ran into the path of a car at Taylor St. and Hurley Avenue.

Charles Dunham of 37 Taylor Street was treated for right side and leg and right elbow injuries. Police said that John Carpio, 59, of 190 Hurley Avenue, said he was driving south on Taylor Street when the boy ran from the sidewalk in front of 37 Taylor and into the right front fender of his car.

The child was x-rayed and released after treatment. Patrolmen Joseph Kilvan and Kenneth Radel investigated.

Senators Expect

amendments in an effort to pass the bill by the end of the week.

Southern senators opposed to the whole bill as unconstitutional arranged to meet an hour in advance of today's session to decide whether to block Mansfield's unanimous consent request.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., spokesman for the Southern senators, said their decision may turn in large measure on the fate of the antipoll tax amendment.

The Southerners contend Kennedy's amendment, like provisions in the bill for suspension of literacy tests and appointment of federal registrars in wide areas of the South, would deprive the states of their constitutional power to prescribe voter qualifications.

Mansfield said that if agreement cannot be obtained to limit further debate, he will consult with Dirksen about filing a petition to put the Senate's antipoll tax rule into effect.

Youth Called Grave

Thomas Shaffer, 18, of Willow Cross Road, Town of Hyde Park, was taken to St. Francis' Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Monday in grave condition after he had fallen from a pick-up truck which was turning into Compton Road from Willow Cross Road, state police reported. He suffered a fractured skull. Rhinebeck state police said the young man was riding in the bed of the truck driven by Charles Shaffer, 47, when the accident occurred.

Major Battle . . .

provincial administration building in Song Be and attacked a government post a half mile from town. The post held despite withering fire from Viet Cong cannon and mortars.

Capture Five Cars

The Viet Cong captured five armored cars from defenders of the administration building and threw them into an attack on the Song Be airstrip a half mile away.

The Viet Cong began to leave the town about 9 a.m. and government troops began moving in. Red anti-aircraft fire continued and at noon troop-carrying helicopters were still unable to land in the area.

Several medical evacuation helicopters got through to pick up casualties. None was reported downed.

Viet Cong anti-aircraft filled the sky with tracers.

"They had two batteries working us over pretty good," said Capt. Kenneth Blackwell of Newaygo, Mich., a B57 pilot.

Blackwell's swift, two-engine plane was hit in the tail and right wing.

The leader of the strike, Capt. Robert Woodruff of Pomona, Calif., also took hits on his jet.

Woodruff's navigator, Capt. Don Carruthers of Palo Alto, Calif., was grazed by flying glass when a bullet struck the jet's cockpit canopy. Physicians removed glass splinters from his arm.

Created by Diem

The Americans have been expecting a major attack for months on Song Be. The town was created by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, who opened up Phu Long Province, a desolate area near Cambodia.

The attack followed three days of intensive Communist activity in the northern Mekong Delta. Two Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a battle Sunday and Monday in Hau Nuhia Province, 50 miles south of Song Be.

The Marine casualties occurred in the leatherness' first seize-and-hold operation since they landed in Viet Nam two months ago. They occupied the Le My village complex, a trouble spot for the Marines and government forces where another Marine was killed last Friday.

Usually only a Viet Cong platoon or less operates in the area, but the Communists can summon reinforcements quickly from the nearby hills.

A Marine company charged one of the central hamlets today and ran into sharp sniper fire. One Marine fell, shot through the heart. Marine fire teams then sprayed the Communist position with bullets. One woman was found killed and an old man fatally wounded.

Four of six Americans wounded were reported in serious condition.

Because of its position 8 miles west of the strategic Da Nang base, wresting Le My from the Viet Cong was considered a must.

Bitten by Snake

Charles Montfort, 49, of Schultz Hill Road, Town of Clinton, was bitten on the right index finger Sunday by a cottonmouth moccasin snake. He was treated at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, and released. At the time he was feeding snakes prior to crating them for shipment to a Chicago zoo. Montfort raises snakes. The snake was said to be a small one and did not discharge much venom.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—A mixed stock market weakened a little in active trading early this afternoon.

Although airlines held a string of moderate gains, their rise was trimmed. Meanwhile, losses in a couple of auto stocks deepened.

The list was mixed from the start as analysts saw the market entering its third straight session of a consolidation movement following the climb to historic peaks which ended last week.

The general economic and business background contained no stimulating developments. The foreign situation continued to be of some concern.

Most stock groupings were scrambling for direction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 5 at 342.2 with industrials off 1.1, rails off .3 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.15 at 929.32.

Eastern Air Lines was up 1½ at its best but it slipped this to a small fraction. United Airlines (ex-dividend) held a gain of nearly a point while slight gains were posted for some other airlines.

The transfer of big blocks, which highlighted recent sessions, was almost totally absent except for the opening.

If a property owner has his own appraisal—the Agency will be glad to review it. If it can be shown, and substantiated by the property owner's appraisal, that the price we have established, (based on our appraisals) is in error or incomplete we shall be pleased to make a re-evaluation of the price.

"The assessed valuation of properties has no direct relationship to prices we are paying for properties.

"Again, I want to stress that prices are based on two appraisals—not property assessments.

"If a property cannot be acquired by negotiation, it will be acquired through eminent domain or condemnation proceedings and in this case the courts determine the fair market value which the Agency pays.

"These seven properties are in the first area to be acquired and the Agency has been attempting to negotiate for the properties for approximately two months now.

"To date 35 of 54 property owners in the first section have agreed on prices and a number closings of title have been made."

Fall From Work Scaffold Fatal To State Worker

David Gifford, about 50, of Madusa, Albany County, a bridge maintenance employee of the State Thruway fell 200 feet to his death at 11:10 a. m. today, when a scaffold on which he and a companion were at work near Mile Post 113, collapsed.

His companion managed to cling to the scaffold and was rescued in a hysterical condition. The man, who was not identified, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

The two men were at work cleaning the bridge which spans a 200-foot deep ravine south of the Catskill interchange.

Mrs. Gifford, who is employed at Greene County Memorial Hospital took the call for an ambulance in the emergency room of the hospital not knowing that her husband was involved in the mishap. A son is a state trooper with Troop G at Duaneburg, according to Acting First Sergeant H. H. Ganss of Troop T at Albany, a resident of Kingston.

The accident is under investigation.

Charles Montfort, 49, of Schultz Hill Road, Town of Clinton, was bitten on the right index finger Sunday by a cottonmouth moccasin snake. The snake was said to be a small one and did not discharge much venom.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—A mixed stock market weakened a little in active trading early this afternoon.

Although airlines held a string of moderate gains, their rise was trimmed. Meanwhile, losses in a couple of auto stocks deepened.

The list was mixed from the start as analysts saw the market entering its third straight session of a consolidation movement following the climb to historic peaks which ended last week.

The general economic and business background contained no stimulating developments. The foreign situation continued to be of some concern.

Most stock groupings were scrambling for direction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 5 at 342.2 with industrials off 1.1, rails off .3 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.15 at 929.32.

Eastern Air Lines was up 1½ at its best but it slipped this to a small fraction. United Airlines (ex-dividend) held a gain of nearly a point while slight gains were posted for some other airlines.

The transfer of big blocks, which highlighted recent sessions, was almost totally absent except for the opening.

Two of Nation's Top Physicists to Teach for State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Two of the nation's leading physicists, Dr. Edward Teller and Dr. Chen Ning Yang, will teach on State University campuses in the next school year, Gov. Rockefeller announced today.

Teller will be at the University of Buffalo campus and Yang at Stony Brook, L.I., as distinguished Visiting Professors under a program of the New York State Science and Technology Foundation.

The foundation, established by the Legislature, draws funds from the state and private sources.

Yang, a 1957 winner of the Nobel Prize in physics and the Albert Einstein Award, is expected to be in residence on the Stony Brook campus for three months, beginning in April 1966. Teller, recipient of the Einstein award in 1958, is director of the Livermore Radiation Laboratory of the University of California.

He has agreed to be visiting professor of nuclear science at Buffalo for part of the 1965-66 academic year, Rockefeller said.

Hospital Insurance Measure Introduced

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—All employees in New York State would be covered by hospital insurance under legislation introduced in the Senate.

The proposal was a major recommendation of Gov. Rockefeller's advisory committee on hospital costs. The State AFL-CIO has recommended similar legislation.

The measure introduced Monday would continue coverage for unemployed workers and establish detailed provisions for the compulsory insurance program.

As proposed by the advisory committee, employers and employees would share the cost of the medical insurance.

Against Skate Boards

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The city "wheels" have rolled out a ban against the use of "skate boards" on Syracuse streets.

The common council decreed Monday that the devices, small boards with roller-skate wheels attached were dangerous on roads and could be used only on sidewalks — if the youth had permission of the owner of the sidewalk.

Schafer Will Receive Guild Community Award

"A man dedicated to the future of the youth of the community."

That was a glowing and deserving tribute paid to Louis H. Schafer, general secretary of the Kingston Young Men's Christian Association, at a testimonial dinner in his honor given by Joyce-Schrick Post 1386, VFW, in 1962, the year that Schafer was named Citizen of the Year by the Post.

Today, Schafer holds another honor. He has many others, but this one is made by the Kingston Newspaper Guild. The committee, headed by Henry P. Eighmey, has selected unanimously, Schafer for the Community Award.

This award will be fittingly presented to Schafer Saturday night, May 22, at the Kingston Newspaper Guild's 10th annual Page One Ball to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The award is one of several to be made to outstanding personalities in various fields.

Tickets for the Ball are now available and may be purchased from any member of the KNG. Lou Schafer is a native of Batavia. In an interview with a Freeman reporter in 1955, Lou was quoted, "It's great to see kids get leadership training and see them succeed in life. I've always tried to be something of a kid with my classes. I never let them know my age. You might say I try to participate in what I promote."

At a testimonial dinner a few years ago, Chester Baltz, then president of the YMCA Board of Directors, said of Schafer: "You know YMCA workers do not get rich. Lou Schafer's choice of his work was a desire of the heart. He is doing something he wants to do. He's never too busy to talk with youth and help youngsters with their problems."

Lou Schafer graduated from high school in 1912. He left Batavia—his native city—with $200 in his pocket and enrolled at Springfield College. It was a tough grind, but his courage and determination was sincere and he went ahead and accomplished his goal in life.

Springfield Graduate

Schafer attended Cornell Summer School of Physical Education and worked his way through Springfield College. He graduated from Springfield in 1924 with a Bachelor degree in physical education. He played semi-pro basketball and baseball for many years and was a team mate of Benny Bengough, former New York Yankee baseball catcher. He was a four-letter man at college and worked part time at West Springfield, Mass. YMCA as a director.

Lou had a short career in the grocery business, when he managed the first cash and carry store in Western New York for the Hovy Market Basket Chain before entering college and during summer vacation while attending college.

Kingston's YMCA Day Camp lodge at Shokan was dedicated in June, 1963, in his honor. He had worked untiringly and sincerely for the purchase and development of the Y's new camp site at Shokan.

Lou was one of the first high school physical directors and coaches in 1916 under a legislative bill which called for physical training in all schools. He coached athletics at LeRoy High School.

Schafer became a YMCA member at the age of 14 and launched his career by winning the Genesee County cross country meet, a two-mile event sponsored by the YMCA. During those formative years he learned many athletic skills including basketball, baseball, track, swimming, aerobatics, gymnastics and Indian club swinging.

In Kingston Since 1942

The KNG Page One Community Award winner came to Kingston, Jan. 23, 1942, when he developed the YMCA Day Camp at DeWitt Lake and the local YMCA's first youth center. Prior to coming to this city, Schafer was affiliated with YMCA's in Greenwich and New London, Conn. That was after completing college.

During his career with the YMCA he has taught more than 15,000 boys and girls in the art of swimming, and many adults as well. He also taught more than 1,900 the art of life-saving and water safety. He has given most of his life to work among youth, and is hopeful of carrying on for a number of years in that same work.

After serving many years as physical department head at the local YMCA he was appointed to the position of general secretary in 1953 and has held that office since with remarkable achievements.

Schafer is responsible for the formation of many bowling, baseball and basketball leagues among young people of Kingston. In April, 1955, he received a service citation for 31 years of outstanding service with YMCA's. The citation was presented at the organization's state convention in New York City.

In February, 1957 Schafer was elected president of the Mid-Hudson YMCA secretaries. May or John J. Schwencik appointed him a member of a three-man commission to promote physical fitness among the youth of Kingston in July, 1962.

Schafer and his wife, Una, reside at 204 West Chestnut Street, this city. They have a daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Lawrence of Hurley.

Received Many Honors

The Page One Community Award is one of many honors held by the Kingston YMCA general secretary, and all have been deserved and well earned.

The public is invited to the KNG Page One Ball, an event which in the last nine years has been an outstanding social event of the season in this area.

With Henry P. Eighmey chairman of the Page One Ball awards committee, other members are, Craig Plough, Charles J. Tiano, Albert J. Cawein and Irwin J. Thomas.

Robert Sachloff is general chairman of the ball.

The format for the event includes the crowning of the Page One Queen, presentation of awards to outstanding personalities, a Page One Year Book, dinner and dance.

Art of Ceramics Discussed Before Historical Group

The first meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society for 1965 season was held Saturday, May 8 in the meeting room of the Dutch Reformed Church at Hurley.

The guest speaker was Kenneth Green, assistant professor of Art at the New York State College of Education at New Paltz. His subject was ceramics. A native of Emporia, Kansas, he received a Master of Fine Arts at State University, Iowa. He has won many prizes at important craft exhibitions and his works are on tour under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington and the American Federation of Arts and are in many permanent collections.

Pointing out that ceramics was the oldest art form and reflected the culture of its era and was therefore a product of history as well as showing the individuality of the maker, he referred to the simplicity and dignity of the early American work as indicative of the Puritan and the Calvinistic society in its lack of ornamentation and usefulness. European ceramics were based on older cultures, the famous Chinese porcelains and methods and designs from Egypt, Greece and Rome.

The industrial revolution brought in the manufacture of strictly functional objects in quantity production. Currently artists are trying to transcend the machine product, using many old folk forms and striving for greater expression and individuality, the speaker pointed out. He then demonstrated the making of pottery from clay on a potters wheel and described the many articles he had placed on exhibition. These ranged from the delicate glazed objects to the strong individualistic works of modern artists.

At Beaver House, Marletown where tea was served, the new exhibition cases, placed in the wide entrance hall, contained many objects of interest and beauty. Here was an array of early American brass and copper, another of European pewter and Britannia, and various pieces of stone ware. The museum will be open to the public daily except Mondays and Tuesdays from one to five P. M. beginning June first through September. Miss Katherine Millard will again be in charge.

Jim starts today's discussion of the Vanderbilt Cup play with an embarrassing question.

Jim: "What was your worst play of the Vanderbilt tournament? Or didn't you make any bad ones?"

Oswald: "I never make claims of perfection. My worst play was a lead against a slam. I sat West and the bidding requires considerable explanation."

Jim: "Ira's heart bid was the weak two showing a good six-card suit and a hand just below opening strength in high cards. Right?"

Oswald: "Yes. South's three club call was a deliberate underbid. He wanted to buy the hand. My jump to four hearts was mainly an effort to keep our opponents from finding a spade fit although it turned out that we would have made four hearts. North's double just showed cards and South's jump to six clubs was a gamble he had planned when he made his first bid."

Jim: "You opened the ace of diamonds. Was that so terrible?"

Oswald: "Ira and I were play-

Oswald: "Right! The hand also shows the advantage of having good teammates. Dinky Weiss and Phil Feldesman got to six spades at the other table. There was no defense against it and we still gained two international match points in spite of my lead."

$1.75 Billion Seen Realistic

Congress Going to Work Next Week on Cut in Excise Taxes

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is about to give another demonstration of how hard it is to do something that is supposed to be popular: cut taxes.

The House Ways and Means Committee goes to work next Monday on legislation for a $1.75-billion annual reduction in those selective sales taxes known as federal excises.

President Johnson's advisers, who want the cut to keep the record peacetime economic boom rolling, are understood to be a bit easier in their minds about two worrisome aspects of the excise tax reduction proposal.

One was the fear that Congress would not stop with a $1.75-billion reduction — or anything close to it — when the pressures built up from makers of the varied assortment of things, automobiles to ball point pens, that are subject to federal excise tax.

Help From Viet Nam

But the hold-the-line forces got help from an unexpected quarter: Viet Nam. The $700-million increase in military funds, voted almost unanimously by Congress, inspired demands by Congress members for a redoubled watch on economy and outgo. They have not forgotten that the $11.6-billion income tax cut, voted only last year, was speeded along by predictions that the budget would be balanced during the year beginning July 1, 1966. So at least some legislative leaders now feel the brakes have been tightened and $1.75 billion is a realistic figure for an excise tax cut.

The fiscal planners' other worry is a bit more complicated. Basically, it is a fear that once the exact reductions Congress is working on became known, buyers of the goods affected may go on a temporary strike.

Autos Good Example

Automobiles provide a good example. The average excise tax on a car is about $235. Not many people expect the administration to recommend, or Congress to approve, outright repeal of the tax, although the automobile industry would welcome it. This repeal alone would cost the Treasury more than the total excise tax reduction it is seeking.

But suppose Congress starts talking about cutting the rate in half, from 10 or 5 per cent?

Cancer Society Will Show Film Thursday

A program of vital interest to women will be presented by the American Cancer Society, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Hose 5 Fire Company, Thursday, May 13 at 8:30 p. m. at the Fire Hall, opposite the Chambers School. Mrs. Mary Van Kleeck, auxiliary president, announced that the film, Wouldn't a prospective buyer, seeing a chance of saving more than $100 if he waits until Congress has acted, be inclined to drive the old clunker a little longer?

Or consider those excises that many consider the most likely to be abolished altogether, the 10 per cent retail taxes on jewelry, furs, perfumes and cosmetics, luggage and handbags. All these are popular gift items. Suppose Congress should repeal the taxes on them effective Jan. 1. What would happen to Christmas sales?

To reassure potential buyers, some tax specialists proposed that Congress let it be known from the start that whatever reduction it ultimately voted would be retroactive — to some such date as the receipt of the President's recommendations, or the opening of committee deliberations. Then, it was argued, customers could go ahead and buy, counting on refunds later.

Harder to Administer

But such an arrangement would be hard to administer, and it would tend to increase the revenue loss and to push some of it back into the present fiscal year, when the budget already is substantially out of balance. The present mood of the potential handlers of the bill is against retroactivity.

Their inclination is to count on speed instead, and this is one of the things that tends to reassure the fiscal planners. If Congress can pass the legislation by July 1 — by which time it must take some action anyhow to keep several of the taxes from expiring automatically — there might not be time for much of a buyers' strike to develop.

The administration's tax planners are mulling over a proposal for new cars which, they think, would solve both the buyers' strike and the budget problems. This is to reduce the 10 per cent auto and telephone excises very gradually, over a period of years, with reductions of only 1 or 2 percentage points annually.

The prospective car buyer who would delay his purchase to save $100 or $200, it is reasoned, would be likely to go ahead if the potential saving were only $10 or $20. And the loss of $1.8 billion in revenues, which auto sales produce, would have a much softer budgetary impact if spread over 5 or 10 years than if subtracted all in one lump.

James Marlow, who usually writes this column, is on vacation.

Early for Governor, FDR Jr. Sees New Job a Challenge

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. says he regards his appointment to head the new Equal Employment Opportunity Commission as "a wonderful opportunity, a great challenge and a promotion" over his present job as undersecretary of commerce.

Asked in an interview if he regarded the appointment by President Johnson as a stepping stone to a possible political comeback, he said:

"The election for the governorship of New York is still a year and a half away. It's much too early to make any decision about that."

Roosevelt, son of the late president, has not run for elective office since he was defeated in a statewide race for New York attorney general in 1954.

He has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate to oppose Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's expected third-term bid in New York next year. He noted that as commission chairman he expected to do a good deal of speech-making in both North and South.

"One of the commission's main functions will be advocacy of elimination of discrimination in employment," he said.

The White House announced late Monday that Roosevelt would head the five-member commission, which will administer the portions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act which ban racial discrimination in employment.

Roosevelt noted that in addition to banning bias against members of minority groups, the act marks the first federal legislation to outlaw discrimination on the basis of sex.

Roosevelt, appointed to a term on the commission which expires July 1, 1967, said he asked for a two-year term because "I just don't like being tied down for too long."

Four other commission members were named — one for a term that expires in July 1966 and the other three for terms of three, four and five years respectively.

Ike's Car Rifled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Someone has stolen a spare tire, portable radio, emergency oxygen kit, drugs, a box of candy and a .38-caliber revolver from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's car.

Eisenhower's chauffeur, Ruben Brechbill, told police Monday the theft occurred while the general was staying overnight at Walter Reed Army Hospital for a routine examination.

The car had been parked in the basement garage of an apartment building.

Brechbill said Eisenhower uses the oxygen kit and drugs when short of breath. The pistol belonged to Gen. Robert L. Schulz, Eisenhower's aide.

Oops, Still Married

HONOLULU (AP) — Circuit Court Judge Samuel P. King granted 13 final decrees of divorce Monday, unaware that a new divorce law had been signed by the governor last Saturday.

"Oops," said Judge King when he learned the new law was in effect.

"There are now six of these couples who are still technically married," he said.

The new law prevents couples with minor children from obtaining final decrees until a year after a divorce is granted.

Being Friendly in Viet Nam

Pacification Has Rewards, But It Also Has Its Perils

By HAL BOYLE

HOA PHAT, South Viet Nam (AP) — It was the proudest day of his life for 11-year-old Nguyen Duc Tan. In a simple and moving ceremony not far from the Da Nang battlefield, the U.S. Marines honored the slender boy for being the top student in his class at the village Buddhist school here.

The scene was the thronged schoolyard in front of a colorful Buddhist temple. Black robed monks set out tiny cups of tea. On a screechy public address system, a prominent local man made the customary graduation speech.

The high point of the ceremony came after Nguyen Duc Tan had read his valedictory address in an earnest, high-pitched voice. He stood at rigid attention in his blue shirt and shorts as Lt. Col. Jim Williams of Coronado, Calif., read the boy a letter of commendation on his scholarship from the commanding U.S. Marine general.

He's Very Proud

Williams then gave him a pen and pencil set and told him, "Keep up the good work, son."

Nguyen Duc Tan seemed almost sufficed with pride as he showed off his prize to his schoolmates. We left after Williams and Lt. Donald W. Harris of Phoenix, Ariz., had helped distribute 20 packets of books and pencils to other honor students.

As civil affairs officer, Harris, a lawyer in civilian life, is responsible for pacification missions designed to win friends and influence people. He is enthusiastic about his work and has asked that his tour out here be extended so that he can continue it.

"We just want to show them that we are interested in them and that the American servicemen isn't a bad guy," he said. "We feel that if the children like us, so will the parents."

Kids All Same

"I like kids. I spent seven summers as a camp counselor in New York State, and the kids here are no different basically than those in our country."

Harris is proud of a free medical clinic which he set up with the help of two Navy corpsmen. "In three days we treated 150 children and adults," he said.

"I believe the best medicine is soap and hot water. Most of the diseases we treat are dirt-caused. So the first thing we do with these kids is to give them a good scrubbing."

Good Bath Does It

"It's really gratifying to see the sores on these kids heal up, and feel that we are really doing something to help them. But some parents are bringing in kids who don't have anything wrong with them. They just want us to give them a good bath."

Marines in the Da Nang area also are chipping in to send three children with cleft palates to a hospital near Saigon for operations. The operations will cost only $5 each, but that is more than the parents have been able to afford.

Has Its Perils

Pacification has its own reward but it also has its perils. On the same day that young Nguyen Duc Tan got his gift pen and pencil set, a goodwill mission of Marines in a nearby village was fired on by Viet Cong guerrillas. One marine was killed.

"It upsets me," Harris said, "to realize that the people in that village knew the enemy was there — and didn't warn us."

Scientists Apologize For Hayden "Death"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two scientists who reported the "death" of Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., have apologized. "Our oversight has returned to haunt us," they told him.

Hayden, 87, pointed out to Walter F. Murphy and Marver H. Bernstein last week that a footnote in their textbook said he died in 1962. That, the senator said, "is not in accord with the latest edition of the Congressional Directory."

The authors replied by letter that they had deleted the bobbie from subsequent printings of the book, but "we have had a pall over our lives knowing that we were unsuccessful in burying the error."

The New York World's Fair continues a tradition that began with the Great Exhibition in Hyde Park, London, in 1851. The first huge international exposition attracted 14,000 exhibitors and six million visitors. The event was staged in an architectural wonder — the Crystal Palace — a gigantic glass, iron and wood building that sheltered 20 acres.

Wuppertal, West Germany, has an amazing train the Freeman missed the first time around. Today we admit how far we missed it . . .

WE DON'T MISS MANY TRAINS

We don't miss many trains . . . stories about trains, automobiles, airplanes, ships, spacecraft, and other forms of transportation of interest to Ulster County residents, jobholders, businessmen, city planners . . .

Fact is, The Freeman regularly goes a long ways to bring its readers the latest news on how to get places faster, for less, more comfortably. Nowadays we are particularly attentive in bringing you reports on new ways of easing city traffic congestion, a problem shared by most cities throughout the world. All this coverage of developments in the transportation world, of course, is just another way by which we at The Freeman seek to reach our goals by helping you reach yours.

Sometimes we do miss a train or a scoop . . . news scoop, that is. Our photo today shows one which, believe it or not, we missed by 65 years! But is one train missed in 65 years really so bad? Fortunately, when our news side slips up on a rare occasion, we can still turn to the historians on our staff. They're good too. For a short account from our historical desk about an amazing train we missed by a long ways, please see box.

NEWS FROM HISTORICAL . . .

The train you see pictured here is the famous Hanging Train of Wuppertal, West Germany, very likely the world's first monorail. If you think it looks a bit strange and futuristic today, imagine how it must have seemed to people on October 24, 1900 when it made its first run with Kaiser Wilhelm aboard. Probably your first impression of it, whether riding or looking, is of a giant centipede, about 10 miles long, crawling down a river bed right through the heart of a crowded city, with its feet on both banks so they won't get wet. Aside from being a touristic marvel, the Hanging Train, or Schwebe Bahn as Wuppertalers affectionately call it, represents a remarkable bit of pioneering in what city planners today refer to as second level mass transportation systems. Why did they build a train suspended over a river? Because, even back in 1900, conditions in the narrow Wupper River valley were so crowded that there was simply no place else to build a train without ripping up existing throughfares, office buildings, factories, schools, churches, homes. Yet the area desperately needed some way of transporting people rapidly from one end of the valley to the other. What you see is the result. So goes the story of one train The The Freeman missed by 65 years. Well, as our news side says, we can't scoop 'em all . . .

Red China Escapees Find Home With Ulster Family

A Chinese mother and her two teenage daughters who escaped from Red China in 1949 have found haven here in Ulster County.

Mrs. Helen Chen Ling and daughters, Vivian and Ann, recently arrived from Hong Kong and are making their home with Judge and Mrs. Raymond LeFever of Bloomington. The LeFever family is sponsoring them in this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Ling and their daughters managed to get to Hong Kong on the last boat out of Red China. Four weeks after their escape, Mr. Ling died. Since that time Mrs. Ling has been teaching music and English in a Hong Kong high school as well as teaching courses at the seminary there. An accomplished vocalist, she also had a daily radio broadcast there.

Visits on Scholarship
In 1958, Mrs. Ling was awarded an American scholarship by the Dutch Reformed Church Foreign Mission Board and spent a year studying music and education at Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J. During her stay in America, Mrs. Ling spent some time with Mr. and Mrs. LeFever at their home in Bloomington in order to study American family life.

After her return to Hong Kong, the LeFever family proceeded to bring Mrs. Ling and her daughters to this country. Mrs. Ling had expressed the desire to bring her family here to enjoy life in a free country with better educational facilities and work opportunities.

Mr. Ling hopes to teach here. Daughter Ann will attend Kingston High School and Vivian plans to go to college so that she may do medical missionary work with crippled children.

The Ling family remarked that the people here have been so warm and friendly that they do not feel out of place at all. Ann is very pleased that people do not laugh when she stumbles over the English language.

Vivian reports that there are so many students in Hong Kong who would like to come here for study but because the quotas are small it is almost impossible. Both girls are impressed by the vast expanse of the country and the beautiful scenery as compared to Hong Kong which is "much too crowded." They are amazed also at luxuries of the working people. In Hong Kong only the rich can afford such things.

The LeFever family—who are responsible for the Ling family's start in this country, are most active in their community and in the county as well. Mrs. LeFever who has long been active in Republican politics is vice chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee and serves as treasurer of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church Sunday school, secretary of the Guild for Christin Service of the church and is a choir member.

Mr. LeFever, justice of the peace for the Town of Rosendale, is senior elder of the church and a member of the board of Warwick Estates Reformed Church center at Warwick. He has been an active member of the Bloomington Fire Company for many years.

Folies Expert:

Americans Now Most Gorgeous Of All Showgirls

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I have undressed 10,000 women in 30 years," says Michel Gyarmany, thus qualifying him for the most interesting occupation sweepstakes.

Gyarmany, for want of a better title calls himself the director of sex appeal for the Folies Bergere, both in Paris and Las Vegas.

His main job is picking the gorgeous showgirls and then supervising their costuming, which is mostly undress. He was in town recently looking for more American girls for the French revue.

"The American girl has become the loveliest of all showgirls — and, believe it or not, the most disciplined," says Michel. In all his years with the Folies, what two stars impressed him the most?

"Josephine Baker and Mistinguett. They also were the most temperamental."

"When Josephine made her first performance in the Twenties, no one in Paris could believe what they saw — a 19-year-old bronze statue, half-nude, lying on a leopard skin. She was a star immediately."

"Cole Porter, Ernest Hemingway and other Americans living in Paris at the time used to come to her dressing room time after time.

"But her agent, an Italian, used to beat her every night. He said that was the only way he could keep her a star without the swollen head."

Mistinguett, famed for having two of the most beautiful legs in the world was jealous of the St. Louis-born Miss Baker. Gyarmany recalls.

"She used to say: 'What is the name of that Negro woman who dances with the bananas around her hips?'"

Gyarmany, Budapest-born, started as a decorator with the Folies in the Twenties. For the last 30 years, he has been the director of the famed revue. He says that American girls are taking over as international showgirls because they possess the perfect measurements for nudes.

"They are tall with small waists, long graceful necklines, long slender legs, and most important, beautiful busts."

There's an intangible requirement which Michel says he can spot immediately.

"When the men in the audience see my girls, they must wish that they have a woman like that. And the women must also wish to look like my girls because then their husbands will not have roving eyes."

Tyler and Davis Bodies Recovered, Job on Wreckage

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Investigators tried today to raise the wreckage of the plane which plunged into the Atlantic Ocean Sunday, killing Carole Tyler and pilot Robert H. Davis.

Divers recovered the bodies of Miss Tyler, 26, secretary of Bobby Baker, and Davis, 44, of Huntington, W.Va., from the fuselage Monday.

Divers said the body of Miss Tyler was in the front cockpit of the plane, in which Davis had taken her for a sightseeing trip over this busy resort. Witnesses said the plane plummeted after reaching the crest of a loop offshore from Baker's Carousel Motel.

Civil Aeronautics Board officials indicated it would be some time before they could assemble the plane's wreckage in an attempt to learn the cause of the accident.

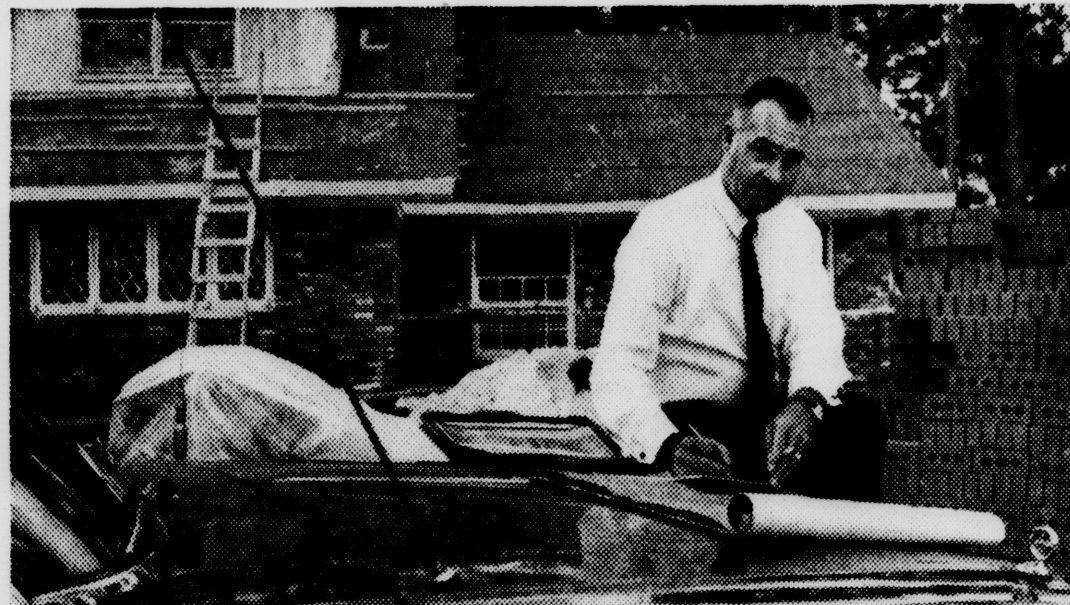

Baker, who resigned under fire as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority in 1963, participated in the search for the bodies and helped identify them.

Miss Tyler and the Carousel were mentioned prominently during 1964 senate hearings into Baker's outside business activities. Probers tried to learn the details of Baker's purchase of a $28,800 Washington town house occupied by Miss Tyler and another secretary, and about his financing of the motel construction.

Q: My girl friend called me last night to go to the movies. When she rang the bell, I answered the door and told her that I would be right out. I went back into the house to put on my hat and coat. My mother reprimanded me for not asking my friend to come in. She said I was very impolite. I would very much like to have your opinion.

A: It was not very polite to leave your friend standing outside and you really should have asked her to come in. But if it was only a matter of a few seconds, and moreover, you left the door ajar, it was not serious breach of etiquette.

Announcing Their Son's Marriage

Q: Our son who is in service was recently married to a girl from the city in which he is stationed. It was a very quiet wedding. Only a very few closest relatives know of the marriage. When I wrote to my son I asked him if the bride's mother was going to send announcements, and if so, I would send her my list. He informed me that she was not planning to send any. I would like to know if, in this case, my husband and I could send announcements to our relatives and friends?

A: It would not be proper for you to send formal announcements of your son's marriage. Close relatives and friends would be notified verbally or by personal note. Also, a notice of the marriage could be sent to your local newspaper.

Employer Introduces His Secretary

Q: Will you please settle a point of etiquette that I am not at all sure about? As secretary, should I rise and shake hands with people to whom I am introduced by my employer?

A: You do not rise unless the person you are introduced to comes toward you.

Education Group Blacklists Okla.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association blacklisted the State of Oklahoma today.

It warned teachers from out of state not to accept teaching positions in Oklahoma, and said it would establish relocation centers to help Oklahoma teachers find jobs elsewhere.

The NEA imposed national sanctions in protest against alleged "subliminal" conditions in almost every area of the Oklahoma school program.

The Oklahoma Education Association, a state affiliate of hundreds of the state's 22,000 teachers will look for teaching positions outside the state before school reopens next fall. An NEA source said the figure may run to 10 per cent or higher.

The sanctions warn teachers from out of state not to accept teaching positions in Oklahoma because such acceptance may be considered unethical conduct.

Cautions graduates of schools of education against contracting to teach in the state. An NEA source says this does not imply any possible penalties.

Turn the spotlight of publicity on the situation through press releases and reports to business and industrial organizations and their leaders, agencies of government, and the general public in Oklahoma.

The action follows an NEA commission study last winter which produced a report criticizing Oklahoma school operations across the board, from teacher pay to facilities and textbooks.

Director of UR Is Speaker at Breakfast Today

Eric Hamphill, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, outlined the status and plans of the Broadway East and Uptown projects to 100 members and guests at a breakfast meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel this morning. Richard M. Kalish, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Urban Renewal Committee presided.

Hemphill stated that since the signing of the contracts in January steady progress is being made in the five-year Broadway East project. The Uptown project has reached the stage at which a public hearing must be held by the Kingston Planning Board to determine if the proposed plan fits in with Kingston's Comprehensive Development plan. This hearing takes place in the Common Council Chamber at the City Hall, Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Hemphill also stated that the Uptown project is a four-year program. Thus, if approved by the Planning Board and the Common Council, on schedule, a contract could be completed with the federal government, just one year after the Broadway-East contract was signed.

This would make it possible to complete both projects in 1970. Both would move simultaneously.

In releasing this information today, chairman Kalish urged a large attendance at the hearing conducted by the Planning Board Thursday night. A brochure outlining the complete uptown project was distributed at the breakfast today and copies are available at the Urban Renewal office. Another hearing must be held by the Common Council not less than one month after the Planning Board report to the Common Council. A tentative date of June 17 has been set for the second public hearing on the uptown project.

Wandering Monk Guest of Police

If you heard anyone say he saw a monkey yesterday in City Hall—you better believe it.

It seems that Charles Scheid of 160 Wrentham Street, called police headquarters about 7 p. m. to report that he found just that type of animal in his backyard.

In fact, the visiting monk—in informal attire and without leash, cap or tin cup—appeared to be quite a friendly chap. He stayed around the Scheid's back porch while curious neighbors and passersby kept him in view until the arrival of a police detail.

He was then taken to police headquarters where Sgt. Thomas Tomshaw took over supervision of the visiting pet.

As of this morning, identity of the monk's owner was still not known but observers were confident that since the monkey was tame and acted like a pet—it was safe to assume that he was someone's tame pet.

Anyway, he—who didn't respond to any one of an assortment of nicknames—can be claimed by the owner by notifying police.

Hogan Still Tops -- Harrison

Tee to Green He Can Stand Off Jack and Arnie

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Hall of Famer E. M. (Dutch) Harrison, the Arkansas Traveler paid homage to modern golf greats like Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in a free-wheeling, humorous speech at the Northeastern New York PGA's 9th annual Golf Show and Dinner Monday night at the Schine-Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany.

But the 30-year veteran of the fairways tipped his hat in the direction of two immortals of his own era—Ben Hogan and Sam Snead.

"From tee to green Hogan is still the equal of Nicklaus and Palmer," said Harrison in an Arkansas twang that enthralled a capacity crowd of more than 350 persons. He unqualifiedly named Hogan the best player he has ever seen.

Sam's Sweet Swing

For the ageless West Virginia Hillbilly, Sam Snead, he had this accolade: "He is one of our greatest players and characters. We will never see another swing like Sam's." When Hogan was a wild hooker, with both woods and irons, Snead, on the other hand, was born with a flawless swing and nobody, said Harrison, could ever hit a golf ball farther and straighter into a stiff wind than old Sambo.

Harrison was cautious in comments about the fantastic scores shot on the PGA circuit these days. "There's no question that things have improved since I began playing the tournament trail in 1929. There are more players of quality now, the equipment is much improved over the old wooden shaft era and most important of all, the courses are more manicured."

It's a Big Hitters Game

Today's game belongs to the big hitters because of these superior conditions, Harrison said. He cited Jack Nicklaus' fantastic play at the Augusta Masters as an example of a modern power hitter on the loose on a softened course.

But the veteran PGA raconteur is a firm believer in "golfers for courses" contrasted to "courses for golfers." While the long hitters dominate the modern game, Harrison foresaw difficulties for Nicklaus, Palmer, Tony Lema, Gary Player and other hotshots in the 1965 U.S. Open at the Bellverie Country Club in St. Louis. He figures the course to be one of the toughest in the nation.

Likes Doug Sanders

"Some of the fairways at Bellverie are only 30 yards wide. I believe the tourney will be decided on the tees. Players like Nicklaus and Lema will have to be careful on those narrow fairways. I wouldn't be surprised to see the big hitters use 3-woods off the tees."

"I'll have to go along with fellows like Boros, Palmer and Sanders over power hitters like Nicklaus and Lema," said Dutch. "Sanders is one of the straightest hitters in the game and one of the best bad-lye players around. He should do real well."

Notables Attend

The cream of the Northeastern PGA and Eastern New York men's and women's association

REC LEAGUE CHAMPIONS. attended the dinner. Supreme Court Justice T. J. Kane of Cobleskill was the toastmaster. Present as guests were Tom Creavy, who won the 1931 National PGA title, Edmund Cook, Northeastern president; John Espey, Pierce H. Russell, Gail Sykes, Eugene FitzPatrick, secretary of the ENYGA; Mrs. H. J. Noerling and many others. Bob Smith, Wolfert's Roost pro, was the general chairman.

The Ulster county contingent included Ian (Scotty) Robertson, Wiltwyck pro; and a Woodstock Country Club group of pro Jim Hutchins, Tony de Liso, Anthony Pizzarelli, Dr. Edmund Tomaselli, William McGrath, David Halpert, and Thomas Dendy.

HARRISON'S HOMILIES:

The Northeastern dinner add show was the finest he had ever attended. "Golf has been good and opened many doors for me."

"You only get out of golf what you put into it. The tournament trail is tough and demanding, shortens a man's life. You'll never see the son of a touring professional follow in his footsteps. . . . Tournament players who tee off before 10 or 11 a. m. have the advantage over those who go off after that, at least a 2-stroke advantage. . . . 150 golfers can raise havoc with the greens."

"I thought I was a tournament I thought I was going to win. (He did win 20, three U.S. National Seniors, 4 Ryder Cup teams, etc. . . . My greatest thrill? "Winning the Western Open in St. Louis in 1954. I was the only one to break par in that tournament and I'm mighty proud of that win." . . . Winning the Texas Open and Bing Crosby Open back to back 12 years apart was another big thrill. . . . In golf some of us make fewer errors than others. . . . Some have natural ability, others have to work hard to achieve skill."

TIPS FROM A REAL PRO: "Stay with your pro. Changing too many pros have ruined more golfers than anything I can think of. . . . Swing within yourself. . . . When you're on the practice tee, forget the driver. . . . Concentrate on the high number, 7, 8, 9. . . . that's where you develop timing and rhythm. The correct grip and backswing are the two most important elements in the game. . . . Most people over club themselves. . . . Try to play all the clubs in your bag. . . . Never set

Yaz Slugs Yanks, 3-2

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Boston Red Sox won't complain if Carl Yastrzemski, who wants to change directions, has an occasional change of heart. Not when it winds up in the right-field seats at Fenway Park.

Yastrzemski, who believes a few more hits to left field will make him a challenger for the American League batting championship he won two years ago, hit two runs and a sacrifice fly Monday night, giving the Red Sox a 3-2 victory over the staggering New York Yankees.

The 25-year-old Boston star knocked in a first-inning run with a liner to left-fielder Mickey Mantle and homered into the left-field screen in the fourth before driving deep into the right-field stands in the eighth to snap a 2-2 deadlock and help rookie right-hander Jim Lonborg post his first major league victory.

Lonborg needed a ninth-inning assist from relief ace Dick Radatz, who got the last out after the sore-legged Mantle, making his first start in eight days, doubled off the left-field wall for his third hit.

Mickey Drives In Two

Mickey drove in both New York runs with his fifth homer and a single but the Yankees plummeted to ninth place despite pitcher Bill Stafford's first complete game since 1962.

The Minnesota Twins edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 and the Detroit Tigers nipped Baltimore 5-4 in the only other American League games scheduled.

Yastrzemski, who won the batting title with a .321 average in 1963, slipped to .289 last season.

"I should hit that outside pitch to left field and I intend to do that this year," the left-handed hitting outfielder said before the season started. "I don't recall hitting a home run into the left-field nets at Boston last season. The year before I hit six or seven up there. That's the way I'm going to hit from now on."

Average to .269

Yaz was true to his word Monday night until the eighth inning, when his second homer lifted the Red Sox past the Yankees in the standings and raised his batting average to .269.

Minnesota rookie Mel Nelson relieved Jim Katel with one run in, two on and none out in the ninth and retired three straight hitters to save the Twins' victory over the White Sox.

Rich Rollins drove in two runs for the Twins with a double and ground out and scored the deciding run in the sixth on Jerry Zimmerman's single. Dave Nicholson homered for the White Sox.

Al Kaline hit his third home run in three days, a three-run shot in the first inning that helped the Tigers gain a split of their four-game series at Baltimore. The Orioles wiped out the early deficit, too, and led 4-3 until Dick McAuliffe singled across a fifth-inning run and the Tigers added an unearned run in the sixth on Don Demeter's single. Bill Freehan's double and an error by Jackie Brandt.

Jaycee LL Opens With Festivities

The Kingston Jaycee Little league opened its 11th season on Sunday and festivities included a parade from City Hall to the field at upper Forsyth Park and an address by John Machone, alderman of the ward. He represented Mayor Schenck.

Also in attendance was Hubert Richter, district Little League director. Entertainment was furnished by the Troop 12 Boy Scouts of America.

A plaque was presented to Harold Pine by Ray Hrubec of the league for his tireless and devoted efforts toward completion of the new concession stand.

"It was my own fault," said Casey. "I have 5, 10, 15 different pairs of baseball shoes. I shouldn't have been wearing the ones with the spikes." Stengel fell when his spikes caught on the sidewalk in front of the academy gymnasium as the Mets boarded a bus for the trip to the baseball field. He said he usually wears flat-soled shoes before a game, changing to spikes when he goes on to the field. Monday however, he didn't notice the flat shoes packed in his bag. "I wanted to go to the game until they told me maybe I better have the doctors look at the arm," the intrepid skipper said. Army doctors X-rayed the injury and placed Casey's arm in a plaster cast. He'll wear it from six to eight weeks.

Syracuse Wins, 10-7

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse University's baseball team engineered a 10-7 victory over Rensselaer Polytechnic. The mighty Orange exploded for seven runs in the first frame, including a two-run homerun by Hal Rooney.

Relief artist Glen Borkhuis dampened an RPI rally in the fifth after the visitors had scored five runs.

Mets Defeat West Point, 8-0

Bob Klaus hit a third inning homer to start the scoring and the New York Mets went on to score an 8-0 win over West Point before more than 4,500 yesterday at the Military Academy field.

With Casey Stengel unable to make the game because of a broken wrist suffered while on his way from the dressing room to the field, the Mets were directed by coach Wes Westrum.

After two scoreless innings, the Mets hopped on loser Mac Hayes for three runs in the third. Klaus started the rally with a shot over the 358-foot sign and across the street in left field.

A hit by Ron Hunt was followed by a booming triple by John Lewis, which hit the scoreboard in right center. After Joe Christopher was struck out, Ed Kranepool followed with a single to score the third run.

The Mets added two runs in the fourth and three more in the sixth to complete the scoring.

Carl Willey worked two frames for the winners, giving up one hit. Frank McGraw hurled the rest of the way, allowing three hits. Before his accident, Stengel delighted the 2,700 cadets at the noon mess in Washington Hall by reading the orders of the day.

McGowan Hurls KHS Javees To 2-1 Decision

Frank McGowan hurred his fourth successive triumph, striking out 15 batters as the Kingston High Javees nipped visiting Poughkeepsie, 2-1, yesterday at the Athletic Field.

Two of the four safeties off McGowan were of the infield variety. He didn't allow more than one hit in any inning and capped his performance by fanning the side in the seventh.

The visitors scored in the sixth on a single, two walks and an error. Coach Ron Cole's team tallied its runs in the third on some daring base running.

With Jerry Corrado on third and Charlie Lay on second, Joel Tomson grounded to short. Corrado took off for the plate. When the throw skipped by the catcher, Lay kept running and following Corrado across the plate, sliding under the tag.

Old Giant Is Happy Westbrook Sees 'Best Mets' Emerging From N. L. Cellar

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Wesley Noreen Westbrook, who came to the New York Mets as coach via way of the New York and San Francisco Giants, looked in mid-season form when he talked to this reporter yesterday at West Point.

The Clearbrook, Minnesota native, who endeared himself to Hudson Valley fans when he played with the Poughkeepsie Roe Movers and the Kingston Recreations while stationed with the Army at Green Haven during World War II days, vividly recalled many of the games he played in this area.

Of course, it was during this period that Westbrook met and married a Poughkeepsie girl and made his home in the Bridge City until the Giants picked up their stakes and moved to San Francisco.

Westrum is now in his second year as coach of the Mets and his eyes light up when he discusses some of the youngsters. "Why fellows like Ed Kranepool, Ron Swoboda, Ted McGraw, Jim Bethke and others aren't as old as many of these Giants here at West Point," Wes said.

Sits With Casey

The former defensive ace of the Giants was a first base coach last year but now sits next to manager Casey Stengel during the game. His skill as a handler of pitchers has worked wonders on such as Chris Cannizaro, now rated one of the top defensive catchers in the majors.

"This is definitely the best Met team we've had in New York. Once our pitching gets into a working rotation, we'll be winning our share of the games," Westrum said. Naturally, he doesn't consider the Mets a contending club, but, along the same line, he is sure the club will not finish in the cellar.

Managed at Point

Westrum was forced to manage the Mets in their exhibition yesterday against West Point. Manager Stengel had a peculiar accident on the way from the locker room to the field and broke his right wrist. The Mets won, 8-0, behind Carl Willey and McGraw.

Oddly enough, the beginning of that "miracle" finish started on that day in August when Poughkeepsie honored the Giant catcher on "Wes Westrum Day" at the Polo Grounds. The Giants beat the Phillies in a double-header and began their big push.

During his tenure in the majors, Westrum compiled a lifetime batting average of only .217. However, of his 503 hits, 96 were home runs and 59 were doubles. He also set a major league record by handling 679 chances in 1950 and making only one error for a nearly perfect .999 fielding percentage.

Could Handle Pitchers
He was credited with the success of the Giant pitching staff, which featured the great Sal Maglie, Larry Jansen and, of course, Hoyt Wilhelm, who broke Westrum's fingers on more than one occasion with his famed knuckle ball.

After retiring as an active player in 1957, Westrum coached for the San Francisco Giants until 1963, when he returned to New York.

Does he like his coaching position with the Mets? "There's a great future here. These youngsters are learning and learning fast. We're not too many years away from being a contender," he said.

After that statement, he went to give the starting lineup to the umpires and then took his temporary managerial seat in the dugout.

Now living in Phoenix, Arizona with his wife and two daughters, Westrum visited Poughkeepsie yesterday and drove to West Point prior to the game.

Though he wasn't noted for his hitting while a catcher for the Giants, Westrum recalls the miracle year of 1951, when the Giants came from 12½ games down in August and went on to beat the Dodgers in that historic playoff, capped by Bobby Thomson's home run.

Wes hit 20 home runs that season, driving in 70 runs. His batting average was only .236 but manager Leo Durocher labeled him one of the keys in the late season surge.

The surging Elmira Pioneers moved to within half a game of the Eastern League lead Monday night with their fifth-straight victory, a 2-1 defeat of the Springfield Giants.

The victory, a two-hitter by Ed Barnowski, closed out a sizzling home stand for the Pioneers, who moved into Pennsylvania tonight to play Reading.

The Pioneers won six of a seven-game home stand. The victories included Ed Watt's second no-hitter of the season and that 27-inning victory Saturday night.

In other Eastern League games Monday, Lefty Ron Locke gave up just four hits as the Williamsport Mets, shut out Reading 5-0 and the York White Roses turned on League-leading Pittsfield 5-3.

York scored two runs in the second and three runs in the third to defeat Pittsfield.

Wildness by Dave Gray hurt the Red Sox as he gave up five walks in the first three innings—all that he pitched.

Losing pitcher Chuck Kovach looked tough in the first two innings at Reading, retiring the first six men who faced him. But he weakened in the third, giving up five hits and three runs. That was really all Williamsport needed behind Locke's shut-out pitching, although the Mets, picked up single runs in the fifth and eighth innings.

Set Time Schedule For Baseball Trip

Parents should plan to pick up the children at the departure points at approximately 6:30 p. m. Further details may be obtained by calling Ernest Meyer in Hurley or Floyd Robbins in West Hurley.

In AAU Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—New Zealand's Peter Snell, Olympic 800- and 1,500-meter champion and holder of most of the world's middle - distance records, will compete in the National AAU championships at San Diego, June 25-26, AAU executive director Col. Don Hull announced Monday.

27 Inning Game

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — The Elmira Pioneers and Springfield Giants played the longest game in organized baseball history in Saturday when they struggled 27 innings before the Pioneers won their Eastern League game 2-1.

Many Changes At Monticello

In an unswerving effort to bring the utmost in comfort, convenience and decor to its racing public, Monticello Raceway recently renovated its lower grandstand and pari-mutuel windows.

Beauty and splendor will be the rule when the track opens its season this Thursday night. In charge of the operation was Dennis Juraw of Schleman and Juraw, Middletown, an architect who created the General Sullivan room, driver's viewing lounge and judges' booth atop the Monticello grandstand. The 178 windows have a striking new face with an open, bank-type appearance instead of the former old-fashioned theatre-type. Wagers can now be made without looking through bars or the old small glass opening.

The comfort of the patrons, especially on cool evenings, the lower level of the grandstand is enclosed. Swinging glass doors have been added to the entire lower portion, keeping the cold out and the heat in.

A Nice Dilemma For Hal Blevins

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Harold Blevins is in a dilemma and he wouldn't trade places with anyone.

Here's his problem: The New York Knickerbockers want him to play professional basketball.

The Dallas Cowboys want him to play professional football.

A 6-foot-1, 188-pounder, Blevins starred in basketball at Arkansas AM&N, a Negro school playing in the Southwestern Athletic Conference.

But Blevins was a standout footballer as an end in high school at Tuscaloosa, Ala., and the Cowboys want to try him at flanker back or split end.

They've got his name on a contract for a tryout at the Cowboys' training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., July 15.

The National Football League team became understandably concerned last Thursday when the Knicks of the National Basketball Association drafted Blevins in the second round.

Why not play for both?

Because football and basketball season's overlap, more so than baseball and football, or basketball and baseball.

Prefers Basketball

"Dallas called to remind me of my contract with them," Blevins said. "I think my chances are better in basketball because I have not played football since high school. But I'm not going to make a definite decision yet. I have a real good contract with Dallas."

A second-round NBA draft and a professional football contract for a fellow who hasn't played the gridiron since high school indicate that Blevins has made some respectable moves.

And his career totals bear it out: 2,241 points in four collegiate seasons, with a 23.3-point average his senior year.

The Knicks have contacted him about contract terms and they'll work out a proposal with him this week. Meanwhile, the Cowboys are keeping their eye on the goings on.

And Blevins? He's just waiting for the bidding to stop.

Fights Last Night

PHILADELPHIA — Leotis Martin, 183, Philadelphia, knocked out Sonny Banks, 205, Detroit, 9.

SAN FRANCISCO — Elmer Rush, 209, San Francisco, and Eddie Machen, 194, Berkeley, Calif., drew, 10.

Rondout Valley Tops Pine Bush Nine, 4-1

Tom Tegeler hurled a four-hitter and drove in a run with a single as Rondout Valley beat Pine Bush, 4-1, in a UCL game Monday at the losers' diamond.

Coach Hal Ross' Ganders opened the scoring with a run in the third as John Blanchard singled, swiped second and scored on Tegeler's hit.

Two runs in the fourth and another in the seventh offset a fourth frame run by the home side.

Tegeler walked six and fanned five in besting Charlie Alexander, the Pine Bush ace.

Rondout is host to Onteora this afternoon.

Briggs Is A Phillie For Sure

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Johnny Briggs wakes up Wednesday, he'll still be a Philadelphia Phillie.

That's not his idea, but with his luck he can't avoid it.

Briggs, a 21-year-old outfielder, had hoped to turn into an Arkansas Traveler at tonight's bewitching hour of midnight. Then he was sent to bat as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning of Monday night's game with St. Louis.

Twenty minutes later, the Phillies had a 4-2 victory and Briggs owned a spot on the team's 25-man roster.

The young lefty, in his second season with the Phillies, doubled and scored the tying run in the ninth, then slammed a two-run homer in the 10th.

Briggs' name has been tossed around as one of three players who must be pared from the roster by midnight tonight, the majors' cutdown deadline.

And while Manager Gene Mauch said after the St. Louis game he never has had any intention of delivering Briggs to the minors, Briggs actually would welcome a trip to Little Rock.

Needs More Work

"I want to play, that's the only way I can learn," he said after his power performance. "I'd like to stay here, but I'd like to play, too. And you can't do both. We have too many good outfielders. So I'd be willing to go down if they want me to."

Until Monday night, Briggs had played in nine of the team's 22 games, posting only three hits in 13 times at bat with no runs batted in. Last season, projected on the roster as a first-year player, he batted only 66 times in 61 games for a .258 average.

His two hits against the Cardinals rocketed his average 102 points to .333. The homer equaled his entire 1964 output.

In the only other National League game, Los Angeles edged Houston 3-2 in 10 innings. Rain halted Cincinnati and Pittsburgh in the third inning.

The Cardinals moved in front 2-1 in the eighth inning as Mike Shannon beat Dick Stuart's throw to the plate on Dick Groat's slow groundout.

But Briggs batted for Jack Baldschun and doubled off the scoreboard. Two outs later, he raced home on Johnny Callison's single.

Briggs Homer

Bob Purkey retired the first two Phillies in the 10th before Ruben Amaro singled. Briggs, who had remained in the game as the left fielder, came up next and drove the ball over the right-field wall.

The Dodgers won their game with two out in the 10th, too. Lou Johnson, replacing the injured Tommy Davis, beat out an infield single with two out, then stole second and continued to third when catcher John Bateman fired the ball wildly.

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Mr.

 collided with a tank truck at an

Hamlin, 82, and his wife, said.

Governor Weighs
Freeing Kin of Paying for Care

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov.
 Rockefeller weighed today a measure to free relatives from responsibility for helping to pay the bills of elderly persons aided under the state medical care program.

As the Senate completed legislative approval of the measure Monday, Sen. Elisha T.
 Barrett, R-Suffolk County, declared that Republican Rockefeller must veto the proposal
 "however meritorious it may be."

Barrett, the ranking GOP member of the Senate Finance Committee, asserted the measure would add $40.8 million to state and local relief costs, although there were no provisions for the money in state or local budgets.

Under the present state plan to medical care for the needy elderly, relatives help pay the costs if able.

In most cases where relatives have assumed a share of the costs, they are the sons and daughters of those receiving aid.

Under the Democratic-backed change, only the spouse of an aid recipient would be responsible for sharing in the costs.

In separate action, the Senate approved, 46-11, a bill to provide more benefits to persons helped under a program for workers ill or disabled from off-the-job causes. The new benefits would be based on the number of dependents.

In debate, Sen. D. Clinton
 Dominick, R-Newburgh, objected to what he called a "piecemeal" approach to dealing with worker benefits.

One of the favorite tourist attractions in 19th Century Washington was the display of inventors' models in the old Patent Office. Models had to be submitted with patent applications until 1880. Many interesting old specimens are still exhibited in the Smithsonian Institution.

The Dominican Republic.

LAND OF BULLETS VS. BALLOTS (I) by Walter Parkes and John Lane

Nearly 500 years of almost continual dictatorial oppression interrupted by countless revolutions have left the Dominican Republic a blood-stained land where bullets have settled more issues than have ballots. It occupies the eastern two-thirds of the West Indian island of Haiti, discovered by Columbus on Dec. 6, 1492. He called it Hispaniola and claimed it for Spain, which held it until 1697. At that time, the Haitian portion was ceded to France and the Spanish part became Santo Domingo.

Practically from that time on, the island was wracked by bad government and revolution. Out of this intermittent chaos the Dominican Republic emerged in 1844. However, unrest continued and Spain once more annexed Santo Domingo in 1861. But in 1865, another revolution ejected the Spaniards for the last time. The Dominican Republic was on its own. In 1869, it worked to get annexed by the United States. But Congress rejected the proposed treaty.

There followed a series of presidents until 1912, when violent revolution once more flamed up. The United States stepped in and mediated an agreement between the warring factions, but again revolutionaries upset the appellation and violence swept the hapless republic. By that time there were many American citizens there and a considerable amount of U.S.-owned property in danger of seizure by the insurgents. All efforts to end the violence and restore some sort of order failed.

Probe Continues Of Green Haven's Fatal Stabbing

A Dutchess County grand jury may begin considering the Sunday stabbing of a Green Haven State Prison inmate, Claude Lee Henderson, next Tuesday.

Henderson, 30, of Pine Island, Orange County, was serving a 4 to 10 years sentence for third degree robbery, when he was stabbed to death by another inmate, Philip Shields, 37, who was also serving a sentence for robbery. Henderson had been sentenced from Ulster County for the robbery of Paul Handy at his Modena store on May 2, 1962.

Investigation into the stabbing is still in progress at the Green Haven Prison, Stormville, where Henderson had been transferred from Clinton State Prison at Dannemora.

Henderson was killed in the institution's mess hall in the presence of some 800 inmates.

Chief Investigator Charles Borchers of Dutchess County Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan's staff, said today there had been no arrest in the case as yet.

Warden Edward M. Fay of Green Haven State Prison, reported Monday that Shields was being "kept apart" from other prisoners at the institution.

Knudson Leads Five Full Days

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas skies held a partial solution today to a $100,000 question — the outcome of the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

Heavy showers punctuated by lightning have postponed for two days the final round of the 72-hole event and installed George Knudson as perhaps the only five-day leader of a PGA tournament.

The 27-year-old Canadian seized the lead Thursday, shared it with Bruce Crampton Friday, regained sole possession Saturday and since has contented himself with James Bond movies.

Discussing the mental anguish of leading a twice-delayed event, Knudson declared: "I think it's just about the same for players who still are in contention... as much tension for them as myself."

Knudson, with a 54-hole total of 209, held a one-shot margin over Crampton and Tony Lema as the field prepared to try again today.

A formidable sextet, lingering three shots back at 212 was composed of Julius Boros, Gardner Dickinson, Doug Sanders, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Don January and Al Geiberger.

Woodstock Apartment Building Destroyed

A small apartment building on Sled Hill Road, Woodstock, on the Steffen premises was practically destroyed by fire Monday night. Ulster County Fire Control reported Woodstock No. 1 Company was summoned at 9:05 p. m. and secured at 9:53 p. m. When firemen under Chief George Haythorne arrived they found the small structure enveloped in flames.

Modena firemen responded for a grass fire at 5:47 p. m. and secured at 6:04 p. m.

A mattress fire at the Falls View Hotel, Ellenville, called out Ellenville firemen at 2:56 p. m. They secured at 3:10 p. m. Damage was confined to the mattress.

Bank Deposit Boxes Become More Popular

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

NEW YORK (AP) — A rapidly growing form of protection for the individual consumer is the safe deposit box.

Once housed only in the vaults of big banks, safe deposit boxes were repositories for the valuables of the well-to-do.

But in recent years the availability of safe deposit boxes and the demand for them have grown. There is scarcely a bank or branch that now fails to have a safe deposit vault.

An executive of a safe manufacturing company estimated there is an average of 250 safe deposit boxes for every bank and branch bank in the nation.

Humbert Fabbro, president of the New York Safe Deposit Box Association, estimated that the number of safe deposit boxes in the United States now is more than 15 million.

Important Documents

The growing usage of safe deposit service is pegged to a combination of the improved economic status of the citizen and the growing complexity of the society that produces more and more documents that need special protection.

These would be items not ordinarily covered by regular insurance, or irreplaceable items. At the top of the list would be important papers, stocks and bonds.

A partial list of important papers common to great numbers of people would include birth certificates, passports, papers of separation from armed forces, car titles, insurance policies, deeds to property, certain kinds of health records, citizenship papers, wills and other legal papers.

Used for Bonds

It is particularly important that bonds have special protection. Most bonds traded in the United States are so-called bearer bonds. That means the person who has physical possession can sell them or cash the coupons. If destroyed, they are irreplaceable.

The bond exceptions are U.S. Savings Bonds or certain corporate securities that are registered in the owner's name.

Even so, there is a certain amount of cost in time and convenience in getting replacements for such securities.

The contents of an individual's safe deposit box are private. The bank is legally barred from access, except when authorized or directed by a legal authority to enter it. Consequently, a bank has no way of knowing what is in a safe deposit box.

Question of Liability

That raised the question recently of liability in the event a safe deposit vault is robbed, as happened recently in Canada. The answer is that where negligence of the bank can be proved, it is liable for the value of the contents of a safe deposit box. But the box renter would probably have to be able to convince a jury of what was in the box.

Virtually all banks carry insurance covering such liability. Law enforcement authorities report that robbery of a safe deposit vault is exceptionally rare.

The costs of renting a safe deposit box vary widely, depending on location and box size.

For individuals who itemize their income taxes, safe deposit box rental is a legal deduction. It falls into the category of deductible expenditures for protection of income.

Bankers are hopeful that costs of safe deposit box rentals will be freed of a 10 per cent U.S. excise tax presently imposed. The tax is one of a number of excise levies President Johnson has proposed be eliminated this year. The legislation to eliminate the tax is before Congress.

Stay Is Granted Of Bruhn Order On SP Promotion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—State Police, armed with a temporary stay, are headed for an appeals court hearing to contest a lower-court ruling that invalidated the promotions of 251 troopers.

State Police Superintendent Arthur Cornelius Jr. obtained the stay Monday from Justice Donald S. Taylor of the Appellate Division of Supreme Court, Third Department.

The promotions of 246 men to sergeant and 5 to lieutenant were set aside by Justice Louis G. Bruhn of Supreme Court last week.

His action resulted from a petition filed by former Trooper John Donohue of Peekskill, who complained that the promotion test was unfair because it relied too much on non-written material.

Allow Delaying Tactics

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—House Democratic leaders plan to allow delaying tactics to continue unobstructed until after the Pennsylvania general assembly returns from its primary election recess.

Rep. Erwin Murray, D-Camden, continued to insist Monday on faithful adherence to a constitutional provision requiring all bills to be read at length.

Murray is a member of a small group trying to force the leadership to act on a Senate-approved resolution demanding Congress to begin the machinery to amend the constitution to allow one house of state legislatures to be apportioned on factors other than a population basis.

Democratic leaders failed in another attempt Monday to get Murray to change his mind. Murray began his campaign last Monday.

HOW DO CHOCOLATE AND COCOA DIFFER?

The beverages known as chocolate and cocoa are both made from the seeds or beans of the cacao plant, and evergreen tree native to tropical America. Cocoa is made from cacao beans from which part of the fat or cocoa butter has been extracted. Chocolate differs from cocoa in being richer in fat and somewhat harder to prepare. Often no distinction is made between the beverages and in many eating places a customer gets the same drink whether he orders cocoa or chocolate.

Little Gardens Group Hears of Village Projects

Several community projects in the village and a paper on narcissus bulbs were outlined at last week's meeting of Saugerties Society of Little Gardens held at the home of Mrs. John Elliott at Windemere. Mrs. Norman Bolinder presided.

The program was entitled "Grow and Show" with a paper written and read by Mrs. Frank Greco. Each member was given a variety of narcissus bulb for planting last October. The bloom were brought to the meeting.

Mrs. Greco explained that daffodil is the common English name for all narcissus and may be used interchangeably with the botanical name narcissus. A bulb bud when planted forms underground, is self-contained and serves as a storehouse of food for when it renews growth.

"In September we buy bulbs. If different varieties are purchased there will be an extended blooming time. Avoid bargain bulbs as they are quite often small. Narcissus like well drained soil. Fertilizing plants will bring better blooms, super phosphate is best worked in soil below bulbs. The bulbs need a good soaking in the fall and the spring is dry, much the plants to conserve moisture and after blooms have died, do not, and this very important, cut off the green foliage as food for next year is stored in it. Plant petunias, alyssum and other annuals over the narcissus after they have bloomed, Mrs. Greco said.

"Cut blooms of the plants in early morning or late afternoon. plunge stems at once in deep fresh water and store for several hours or overnight in a dark cool place. Cut them when they are just beyond the tight bud stage. Daffodils grow wild in Central Europe, the Mediterranean region and East to China and Japan."

Mrs. William Cowley and Mrs. Charles Emerick were accepted as new members. The annual science prize is to be given to a member of the 1965 SHS graduating class. Mrs. John Elliott and Mrs. William Waldele, co-chairman, reported on the annual Flower Shop to be held on June 9 at Saugerties Reformed Church, Main Street.

The members of the society plan to have evergreens planted around the signs erected by the Chamber of Commerce at two of the entrances of the village, one at Barclay Heights and the other at Malden Avenue. A new sign is to be erected at the Ulster Avenue entrance at which time planting will be done also.

This is part of the beautification project engaged in by the society. A new memory tree lighted at Christmas time is expected to be planted on Hill Street this week. The firemen have been engaged in building a low wall around the area where the tree is to be planted. The men from the C. A. Lynch Fire Company are doing the work.

Mrs. Roy Helmsmoortel reported on the trees to be planted in memory of two members. It was decided the planting should be done in the fall because of construction being done in the chosen sites. One tree will be planted in memory of Mrs. Henry J. Schroeder at the Dr. Grant D. Morse School in Blue Mountain. Mrs. Schroeder served on the school board at the time Dr. Morse was superintendent of Saugerties Schools System. One will be planted at the high school location on Washington Avenue for Mrs. Cortland Whitaker as she lived in this area.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the committee.

No Review of ROAMA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals refused today to order a review of the Defense Department decision to close the Rome, N.Y., Air Material Area.

The three-judge panel, in effect, affirmed the decision of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to close the supply center which once employed 2,700 civilians.

A federal district court judge last year dismissed a court challenge of McNamara's decision on grounds the federal courts had no jurisdiction in the matter. Today's decision affirmed that judgment.

Names In The News

Hedy Asks Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Hedy Lamarr, 50, has sued her sixth husband, attorney Lewis W. Boies Jr., 44, for divorce, charging him with extreme cruelty.

Miss Lamarr's complaint filed Monday made no request for alimony but said she is "without funds or property" to support herself or pay court costs and attorney fees.

The couple was married March 4, 1963, in Fresno, Calif.

Thought of Quitting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rebuff on civil rights caused Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., to once consider quitting the Senate.

Douglas disclosed this Monday in arguing for Senate approval of a measure that would rule out poll taxes as a voting qualification.

Recalling a 1956 civil rights bill passed by the House but buried in the Senate, Douglas said he sought to force a Senate vote on the measure. Only five senators joined him in the move, he said.

Bachelor Does It

NEW YORK (AP) — The way Ted Friesz figured it, a lot of people would love to get away from it all and climb a mountain ridge a horse country.

So he decided to do it. Friesz, a 29-year-old bachelor, rode into the World's Fair Monday, 360 days after he left the World's Fair grounds in Seattle.

Police Subdue Man, Threatened Baby With Knife

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ray Jones, 26, stood for 2 1/2 hours holding his 22-month-old baby daughter with a steak knife at the infant's throat.

"Don't come near me. Don't come near me or I'll kill her," he kept telling five policemen beyond an open doorway.

Between the policemen and her husband stood Jones' terrified wife, Joane, 24.

She pleaded calmly with her husband to give up the blonde, blue-eyed baby.

The policemen tried to reason with Jones, who said, "I don't want my wife to have the baby. I want to take her home with me to North Carolina."

On Off-Track, Wage Veto

Certain Defeat Looms For Democratic Moves

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Democrats today sent their off-track betting plan, along with a move to override Gov. Rockefeller's veto of their minimum wage bill, to almost certain defeat in the Senate.

Action on the betting measure and the attempt to override the Republican governor on the wage issue were the principal items on today's legislative calendar.

Little Chance: Zaretzki

Senate Majority Leader Joseph Zaretzki conceded there was little hope of passing the off-track bill, because of solid opposition in Republican ranks and defections in the Democratic majority.

At the same time, the state AFL-CIO organized a labor "march on Albany" in support of the bill.

Capitol News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed a bill authorizing $409 million for health research. The vote was 333 to 4.

The measure also includes a provision for three more assistant secretaries of welfare. The department now has two.

The bill also extends the present program of health research facilities for three years with $250 million provided for matching grants.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department warned Monday that it will be unable to provide protection to Americans traveling in Cambodia.

Cambodia broke diplomatic relations with the United States last week.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said despite the inability to provide security, there are no plans to restrict travel to the Southeast Asia nation.

McCloskey also said the 12 or so U.S. Embassy personnel now in Cambodia will be leaving soon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl T. Rowan, chief of the U.S. Information Agency, says most of the world is starting to understand that the conscience of the American people is at work "beneath the strident demagoguery and the sordid violence" of the civil rights struggle.

Rowan told the Women's National Democratic Club Monday: "Millions of foreigners on every continent have begun to sense that the government and people of the United States have committed themselves to the creation of a society with respect for human dignity, dedication to fairness, whose devotion to justice will be unparalleled in human history."

Police Chief Dies

NEWARK, N.Y. (AP) — Police Chief Edwin Lawton, 61, of Newark, died today of a heart attack.

Applause for Stalin

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian moviegoers burst into applause Monday night when a World War II documentary showed film sequences of Joseph Stalin. It was believed to be Stalin's first appearance on a Soviet screen since Nikita Khrushchev denounced him in 1956.

The documentary, "The Great Fatherland War," showed Stalin making his broadcast July 3, 1941, calling for a people's fight against German invaders.

Squeak for Wilson

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons voted 299-296 Monday night to approve in principle the Labor government's national budget. It was Prime Minister Harold Wilson's narrowest victory on a major issue since he took office last October.

A defeat would have required Wilson to resign and call new elections.

The budget calls for higher income, alcohol and tobacco taxes, expanded capital-gains levies and a new tax on corporate profits.

Visits Improve Attire

DETROIT (AP) — A man entered a bank Monday and took about $600 from the clerk, Joyce Guilford.

Last December the same man took $5,000 from the 18-year-old girl.
